AUTO PLANTS HERE RUN AT TOP SPEED AS ORDERS PILE UP

Hundreds of Workers Put Back on Jobs With Assembly Units Operating at Their Full Capacity.

SHOWS PROSPERITY IN SOUTHERN AREA

Bank Clearings Rise $9-100,000 Above Last Year, Reflecting Trade Gains.

Prosperity's sharp upward angle in Georgia and the south yesterday saw Atlanta's two automobile plants running full steam ahead once again and the banks reporting a $9,100,000 gain in November clearings over the same month last year.

Both the Ford and the Chevrolet plants were turning out cars at top capacity and several hundred workers were back on the job after long lay-offs.

The Ford plant has recalled more than 300 men within the past few days, it was reported, while L. S. Costley, manager of the Chevrolet plant, estimated that several hundred were recalled there and at the Fisher body plant.

South Wants New Cars.
Insistent demands for new cars throughout the southeastern regions served by the two plants reflected prosperous business in the Southland.

Approximately 500 workers are now employed at the Ford plant, turning out more than 100 cars per day, while some 1,400 are now working at the Chevrolet and Fisher body plants.

The Chevrolet plant distributes its production in Georgia, Florida, Alabama and eastern Tennessee.
The Ford company's output here goes to east Alabama, part of Tennessee, southeastern Carolinas and all of Georgia except in a few counties near Jacksonville.

Can't Fill Orders.
Both companies have more orders than can be filled immediately causing the step-up in production to capacity, it was said.

Costley declared that he could sell 2,000 more new cars than he can produce during December. He said he was pointing toward a quota of 33 1-3 per cent greater than last year.

The skyrocketing sales of new automobiles produced in Atlanta are a part of the picture of finances seen in the monthly report of the Atlanta Clearing House Association.

Significant Reversal.

The $9,100,000 increase in clearings over November, 1937, was the first such gain over any corresponding month since business started sliding downhill last year.
Clearings for October, 1937, were greater than for the same month of the previous year but, since that time, this barometer has registered decreases.

Transactions for the month ending yesterday totaled $240,600,000, as compared with $231,500,000 for November, 1937.

It was the largest amount cleared for any November since 1929.

The monthly report is the index of business conditions, reflecting both retail and wholesale trade.

Clearings for yesterday were $10,200,000, a decrease of $400,000 from the same day last year.

Husband of Former Beverley Rogers Dies

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eugene Lorton are pictured at the time of their marriage here two years ago. Lorton, associate publisher of the Tulsa (Okla.) World, died yesterday in Tulsa. Mrs. Lorton is the former Miss Beverley Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold O. Rogers, of Atlanta.

RUMANIAN 'HITLER' AND CHIEFS SLAIN

Codreanu, 13 Lieutenants Wiped Out by Guards; Escape Attempt Charged

BUCHAREST, Nov. 30.—(P)—Rumania's "Little Hitler" was slain today in a mass killing which wiped out the leadership of the outlawed Fascist Iron Guard.

Corneliu Zelea Codreanu, 39, chieftain of the secret organization, and 13 of his followers fell this morning on the road from Rumanik-Sarat prison to Bucharest under the volley of a prison guard detail. An official announcement said they had tried to escape.

Five hours later they were buried secretly in a prison graveyard and tonight no one in Rumania challenged the royal dictatorship of King Carol.

Threat Reported.

(The United Press said the Iron Guard tonight warned King Carol to "make peace with the Rumanian people or we will find another solution.")

(Carol met the threat by instructing gendarmes and police throughout the nation to "shoot to kill without warning" in emergencies and ordered authorities to dispense with legal restrictions to suppress the Nazi-Fascist terrorism.)

Codreanu was serving a sentence for treason at Rumanik-Sarat, 10 miles from the capital, but had been taken with the 13 others in open cars for a trip under guard to Bucharest for questioning concerning an attack attributed to Iron Guards.

The case was that of Flory Stefanescu Goanga, rector of the University of Cluj, who was shot and critically wounded on Monday.

The attack on the rector was said to be part of a large scale Iron Guard conspiracy for rebellion which police presumed had been directed by Codreanu from his prison cell.

Guards Exonerated.

The police account of the shooting said the procession of automobiles was halted a short distance from the prison by armed men who rushed from a roadside woods. The prisoners disregarded orders to remain in the automobiles, it was said, and there was a blast of gunfire in which all 14 were killed. The guards were exonerated promptly.

DU PONT, RASKOB TAXES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(P)—The board of tax appeals decided today that John J. Raskob, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, owes the government $886,833 plus eight years' interest and that Pierre S. du Pont, industrialist, owes $586,369 plus interest. The board ratified an agreement between accountants for the two men and the government.

Old Injury Kills Husband Of Atlantan

Robert E. Lorton, Stricken on Son's Birthday, Dies in Tulsa.

Death yesterday widowed a former Atlanta girl scheduled to act as a bridesmaid in the Gresham-Witham wedding next week, when Robert Eugene Lorton, 24, died in Tulsa, Okla., less than 24 hours after he was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage.

Mrs. Lorton, his widow, is the former Beverley Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold O. Rogers, a prominent member of Atlanta society. Mrs. Lorton was scheduled to be an attendant in the marriage next Tuesday of Miss Eloise Gresham and Stuart Witham.

Stricken at Office.

Young Lorton, who was associate publisher of the Tulsa World, was stricken in his office Tuesday and died yesterday morning, his life having been prolonged during the night by the aid of an iron lung.

His wife, his parents, Eugene Lorton, publisher of the Tulsa World, and Mrs. Lorton, and Mr. and Mrs. Rogers were at his bedside at the end. His parents returned to Tulsa late Tuesday from Panama to find their son unconscious.

Lorton, who was one of the leading young businessmen of Tulsa, was stricken on the first birthday of his son, Robert Eugene Jr. The hemorrhage apparently was the result of injuries received by Lorton four years ago while diving at Woolaroc, the ranch of Frank Phillips at Bartlesville, doctors said.

Visit Here Planned.

Mrs. Lorton had planned to come to Atlanta this week to visit her parents at their home on Peachtree Circle and to attend the series of parties for Miss Gresham and Mr. Witham. Mr. Lorton was scheduled to join his wife here today, as they had planned to give a cocktail party with Mr. and Mrs. Rogers tomorrow afternoon for the bride party. Young Lorton's funeral takes place in Tulsa at 2 o'clock tomorrow. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers reached Tulsa early yesterday morning after being notified of his critical condition.

The marriage of Lorton and the former Miss Rogers was a brilliant social event and took place in June, 1936, at All Saints Episcopal church. Since their marriage they have been frequent visitors here, where they are popular members of the younger set.

SIZABLE BUSINESS GETS UNDER WAY

Executives Report Upward Surge' a Reversal of Trend Last Christmas

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Unless the international situation disrupts present upward business trends Santa Claus should pack the largest load of Christmas goods that he has toted in recent years, according to trade experts of the foreign and domestic commerce.

A sizable Christmas business is already under way all over the country, these experts have found, and should be considerably better than last year by Christmas Eve.

"Business executives who visit our bureau," Commerce Department officials said, "are thinking more optimistically of the future for one thing. A year ago, these visitors tell us, there was a distinct downward trend in business, while today the trend is upward."

The European situation seems to be the one unpredictable factor in the outlook. Germany, Italy or Japan may yet throw a monkey wrench into the slow but sure pick up in foreign trade. Washington, however, is looking for a let-up in international business uncertainties.

Since the November 8 elections business has foreseen an end to "rubber stamp" legislation and is looking to its inventories with renewed optimism.

A year ago each month was showing a reduction in steel production; now steel production is gaining, with a 63.5 per cent capacity currently reached, and prospects of a considerably higher production by spring.

Freight car traffic, building construction, electric energy and sales of automobiles indicate a healthy improvement, even though the improvement is more gradual than spectacular.

WAVE OF SUICIDES SPREADS IN REICH UNDER NEW LAWS

Rabbis Work Overtime Conducting Funerals; New Order Permits Restriction, Segregation.

NAZIS FORCE JEWS TO SELL JEWELRY

Gold and Gems Furnish Foreign Exchange, So Stocks Sale Is Barred.

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—(P)—A wave of Jewish suicides was reported by responsible persons today to have spread throughout Germany as the Nazis decreed new "ghetto" measures.

Rabbis worked overtime conducting funerals. They and other authoritative sources were forbidden to disclose how many killed themselves or died suddenly from causes attributed directly to anti-Jewish actions.

Police in all parts of Germany were empowered by a new order to forbid Jews to appear in certain districts or leave home at certain times.

Violations may be punished by fines up to 150 marks ($60) or imprisonment up to six weeks. It was explained the order provided a "legal basis" for a decree forbidding Jews to appear on the streets during eight hours on the day of national solidarity, December 3, when Nazi leaders collect for the winter relief fund.

Applicants for passports who have German securities with which they have been trying to pay their share of the $400,000-000 levy against Jews so they could emigrate soon are being told by banks they may not sell their securities except by special permit.

It is explained that the finance ministry wants Jews to give up their gold, jewelry and art objects first.

Financial sources believed the reason for this regulation was that gold and jewelry can be converted readily into badly-needed foreign exchange whereas German securities might find a less ready market.

Jewish shopowners met difficulties in attempting to dispose of their stocks at retail prices, hoping to leave the country.

He Flies Across Continent on 146 Gallons

JURY LOCKED UP IN LOTTERY CASE

Clayton Veniremen in Deadlock Over West;
Bradley Is Convicted.

Special to The Constitution.

JONESBORO, Ga., Nov. 30.—
The 12-man jury of Clayton county farmers and business men pondering the fate of E. D. West, one of 10 persons charged with operating a lottery, retired in the Hotel Bama here at 9:30 o'clock tonight, unable to reach a verdict.

The jury will resume its deliberations tomorrow morning.
The apparently hopeless deadlock, which ended temporarily after the jury previously had returned a guilty verdict in the case of Tom Bradley, whose trial was the first in the series on lottery charges.

"All Pretty Clear."

The jury halted momentarily in its deliberations when the men filed into Buchanan's cafe for dinner between 6:15 o'clock and 7:20 o'clock.

At about 8 o'clock, Judge James C. Davis, of Clayton county superior court, recalled the veniremen to the jury box and inquired if they "desired any points of law clarified."

One jurymen answered, "No it's all pretty clear," while the others remained silent. The jury then returned to the little room behind the judge's bench, on the second floor of the brick and slate-roofed court house, erected here in 1898.

As the night wore on, it became apparent that the jury would not reach a verdict tonight. The judge then ordered the men to retire and the jurymen walked across the street to the hotel.

Stumbling Block.

It was understood the main stumbling block to a verdict was on the point made by H. A. Allen, counsel for Bradley, West and the other defendants, including Mrs.
Eddie Guyol, widow of the slain lottery king, that "West was not seen actually operating lottery."

Allen contended that West was "merely in the house"—a Clayton

Tiny Plane Spans U. S. Non - Stop

Young Salesman Makes It in 30 Hours, 47 Minutes, But Can't Find Field.

Special to The Constitution.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(P)— Curly-haired Johnny Jones, former Broadway "booster," completed in 30 hours, 47 minutes today the first non-stop transcontinental flight in the lightest airplane made.

The 25-year-old Van Nuys, Cal., airplane salesman landed his 800-pound, one-seater Aerona at Roosevelt field at 4:18 p. m. (E.
S. T.)—with no apologies for flying the 2,785 miles the right way.
He did admit to one miscalculation.

"I couldn't find Roosevelt field at first," he said.

Nearing the city, Jones said he swooped down over Bendix airport in New Jersey and dropped a note asking the location of Roosevelt field. They sent up a plane and he was escorted the last few miles.

Jones pushed his long legs out of the tiny plane and scooped up some snow from the runway. "We don't have this in California," he smiled.

Jones had loaded his plane—about one-third the size of Douglas Corrigan's plane—with 146 gallons of fuel and had enough when he landed to fly another four hours.

It carried a load of about 1,000 pounds, making the gross weight 1,833.

Nazi Bigwig Thinks Franklin a President

KOMOTAU, Germany, Nov. 30.
(UP)—Rudolf Hess, chief Nazi party deputy of Adolf Hitler, twice referred to Benjamin Franklin as a former President of the United States in a speech here today.

Hess, hitting at American protests against the anti-Semitic campaign, said that the "great President—Benjamin Franklin" had demanded exclusion of Jews (such allegations of Franklin's attitude toward Jews have been proven historically unfounded).

Bullitt To Fly Here For F.D.R. Talks Today

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 30.—(P)—
William C. Bullitt, U. S. ambassador to France, flew here from Nassau today, shortening his vacation to visit President Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Ga.
The ambassador, who planned to leave for Atlanta on the 8:45
a. m. plane tomorrow, said the President invited him to the Little White House, but added:
"There is no story back of the trip."

tences for Protests.

PARIS, Nov. 30.—(UP)—Premier Daladier tonight ordered punishment of labor leaders, hundreds of imprisoned strike demonstrators and several thousand civil employees after crushing organized labor's attempt to paralyze national life in a 24-hour general strike.

The backbone of the General Labor Confederation's nation-wide walkout was smashed before midday by Daladier's military requisitioning of vital services and wholesale conscription of workers. Tonight the country appeared normal.

For the pudgy premier and war minister it was a triumph over organized labor's protests such as no premier had achieved since Aristide Briand broke a railroad strike in 1910.

1,000,000 on Strike.

Instead of the 3,000,000 workers which Leon Jouhaux of the General Labor Confederation (CGT) had ordered to stage a "folded arms" protest against Daladier's recovery decrees, barely 1,000,000 workers obeyed the strike command.

Less than 20 per cent of the CGT's own members struck and more than 90 per cent of France's laboring population remained at their jobs.

"Democracy Triumphed."

Premier Daladier, broadcasting to the nation tonight, said "democracy triumphed over anarchy and disorder."

The Radical-Socialist premier said the government would continue to seek "co-operation with all classes," thereby making a conciliatory gesture to the workers, and insisted that in breaking the strike the government had fought only agitators and propa-gandists.

"You knew," Daladier declared,
"that hammer blows and general strikes had destroyed liberty in other countries."

"The state's authority is liberty's guarantee."

"The labor unions were born under the republic."

"You understood how much one day's disorder would have im-

Hit-Run Truck Kills Bride Walking on Road With Mate

Man Arrested Hour Later in Connection With Highway Death.

A 23-year-old bride was struck down and killed by the truck of a hit-run driver early last night on the Stone Mountain-Redan road, about a quarter of a mile from the center of Stone Mountain community.

An hour later, Chief of Police
W. M. Lanford, of Stone Mountain, announced the arrest of John Digsby, 34, negro, of Tucker, in connection with the case.

The victim was Mrs. J. B. Adams, the former Rosie Pittman, member of a pioneer Stone Mountain family, and wife of a WPA worker.

Patrolmen J. B. White and E.
D. Wingo, of DeKalb county police, reported that the husband of the victim told them he and his wife, arm-in-arm, were walking toward town when the accident occurred.

CUBA'S TRADE PACT WILL BE REVISED

Public Hearings To Be Held in January.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The State Department announced today that it intended to negotiate a supplementary trade agreement with Cuba and called public hearings, beginning January 3. Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, said the only Cuban products which would be involved were sugar, tobacco and tobacco products, rum and potatoes.

LOUISIANA INDUSTRIES OPPOSED ON TARIFFS NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30.—

(UP)—This state's two biggest agricultural industries took diametrically opposed stands tonight on a Cuban offer to throw open the gates to American rice if the United States tariff on Cuban sugar is reduced.

Leaders of the rice industry confidently predicted that such an agreement would mean a "boom" for them. Sugar men flatly declared that lowered tariffs on Cuban sugar might mean the sudden end of the industry.

More varieties of rabbit have been produced by domestic breeding than in the case of any other animal except the dog.

THROW HITS PHEASANT.

Gerald Seelye, of Wayland, N. Y., in cleaning his furnace, tossed a brick outside into some tall grass. Hearing the startled outcry of a fluttering bird, he investigated and found the brick had downed a full-grown cock pheasant.

Accused in 'Dope' Ring

THELMA BELSON.

NEW ORLEANS GIRL HELD IN DOPE RING

Sweetheart of Reputed Leader of Gang Released on Bond.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30.—(UP)—Beautiful Thelma Belson, flaming red-haired sweetheart of the man whom narcotics agents described as leader of the "biggest dope ring" in New Orleans in years, tonight was free on a $500 bond.

Terry A. Talent, special federal agent in charge of the New Orleans district narcotics office, and two agents arrested her November 25 in an automobile while she was riding with her sweetheart, Joseph Bonura, 34, and John Vendemio, 30. The agents said they found 400 grains of heroin concealed in the automobile.

Luxurious Home. Later, they searched her luxurious home and found 7,000 grains of heroin hidden in a trunk, delicate scales for weighing the narcotic, adulterants for "flaming" addicts and delivery envelopes.

When Miss Belson—separated from her first husband whose last name was King—was caught, she asked Talent:

"How high will my bond be?" Later she broke what Talent described as habitual taciturnity again and asked: "How much time will I get for this?"

Photographers lined the entrance to the federal building as the woman and the 17 men accused as being members of the ring were led in, shackled.

Covers Face. Miss Belson flung her coat up to cover her face.

"Please don't let the photographers take my picture," she begged Talent. "My mother is in a frail condition and the shock might kill her."

Miss Belson answered Talent's questions shortly and to the point. "I met Bonura through a girl friend," she said, "and I hope to marry him when I get a divorce."

She is estranged from her first husband, and when arraigned insisted on being booked by her maiden name.

There was no previous police record on Miss Belson.

Expressed Love. How or why she drifted into the dope ring was a mystery narcotics agents could not answer and a mystery which she was unwilling to explain, unless her expressed love for Bonura might be taken as an answer. She is 26, 5 feet 5 inches tall and carries 125 pounds gracefully.

She was born in a middle-class New Orleans family and after her high school days worked for a while as a cashier in a drug store.

Her mother appeared with her when she was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Reginald H. Carter. The mother was short, heavy set, in her early fifties.

Narcotics agents said Miss Belson was either a member or a willing pawn of the "ring." Before arresting her, agents said they had bought quantities of heroin from her "time and again."

METHODIST RANCHES HOLD UNITY SESSION NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Speakers visualized tonight at a mass meeting of the three branches of Methodism a united church to better face a world changing socially, economically and politically.

Hundreds of church members, bishops and leaders of the Methodist Episcopal church, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant church gathered at Nashville's war memorial building for the culminating session of the historic meeting aimed at unification next spring.

No. 1 White Elephant Haunts City As Option on Old Hall Site Expires

FRANK DRAKE. Atlanta's No. 1 white elephant galumphed solemnly and determinedly back into the hall—believe it or not—of municipal authorities last night.

In other words, the option on the old city hall site, at Marietta and Forsyth streets, expired at midnight, and once again the city has on its hands a valuable piece of land—which it can't sell and which city council won't trade.

It's been on the block for the last 10 years, or since the old city hall was replaced with the new million-dollar building at Mitchell and Washington streets. The price asked has varied widely—but there are no takers at any price.

The last option was granted to Jesse Drapper, realtor, for $300,000. The one before was for $500,000.

"The thing is an eyesore, just a hole in the ground," asserted Mayor Hartsfield. "It depresses the value of all the surrounding property. It's a shame to let that vacant hole remain in the heart of our city."

The mayor declared that, but for the "error of council" in turning down the offer of a citizens' committee to trade the auditorium park triangle for the old city hall site, plus a large sum for "boot," Atlanta could now have had a pretty, useful downtown park in front of the auditorium and the "boot" could have been used to match WPA money for remodeling the front of the auditorium building.

"Why, WPA officials, including Harry Hopkins, had already approved the project," he said.

With the expiration of Drapper's $300,000 option, the site is once more in the hands of council.

'WATSON' LECTURE WILL OPEN SERIES

Dr. Vann Woodward, former Atlantan, Will Speak Tomorrow Night.

Dr. Vann Woodward, author of a book on Tom Watson, will speak on "The Political Philosophy of Tom Watson and the Usable Past" at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at the Georgian Terrace hotel.

The lecture will be the first in a series sponsored by the Georgia Academy of Social Sciences. It will be preceded by a dinner at 6:30 o'clock.

Dr. Woodward, now a member of the University of Florida faculty, obtained his bachelor's degree at Emory University in 1930 and later taught English at Georgia Tech. After receiving his master's degree at Columbia University in 1932, he began work on the Watson biography. His doctorate was conferred by the University of North Carolina last year.

ARMY CONTRACTS GIVEN THREE GEORGIA PLANTS

Contracts totaling $273,147.32 recently have been awarded three Georgia manufacturing plants by the War Department for 1939 army supplies, Fourth Corps Area headquarters announced yesterday.

The Peerless Woolen Mills, of Rossville, contracted for $249,429.12 of overcoating; the Union Manufacturing Company, of Union Point, received a contract for $9,883.20 worth of cotton socks, and the Muscogee Manufacturing Company, of Columbus, was awarded a contract for towels totaling $13,835.

Monty Stratton, Leg Amputated, Struck Out by Irony Fate at 25

Baseball Held Rich Promise for Hurler From Texas Cornfields.

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 30.—(AP) Raw-boned, six and a half foot Monty Stratton, a fellow they literally dragged from a Texas cornfield to major league baseball fame, has struck out at 25.

One leg, the powerful right leg he dug into the pitcher's box, is gone. His off-season hobby, hunting, cost him his career. A pistol dangling in a scabbard at his hip discharged last Sunday as Monty trudged along looking for rabbits. The bullet clipped an artery and physicians amputated his leg 48 hours later.

Hospital attendants said today Stratton was improving and apparently was out of danger.

One of nine children, Monty started tilling the soil down near Merritt, Texas, after the death of his father. Monty had heard tell of this baseball business and even took time off from his hoeing to give it a whirl with a scrub team near Merritt.

One day Monty was zipping them across the plate when Mayor W. W. Blasingame, of near-by Van Alstyne, and Jodie Tate, former Texas leaguer, happened by.

Next day the mayor returned to Monty's cornfield and made the proposition that started a chain that led to the Chicago White Sox. His honor offered Stratton $2.50 a game, board and room if he would chunk Sunday ball for the Van Alstyne Grays.

One afternoon the famed pair of baseball ivory hunters, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Largent, of McKinney, Texas, happened along. Stratton was signed merely on his bull pen performance. He was the American Association No. 1 hurler. He went to the White Sox but an appendectomy slowed him down.

In 1937 it was an arm injury for a while, but he finally finished with 15 wins and rated second only to Lefty Gomez. This year there was a price tag of $150,000 on him.

ENVOY WALKS OUT ON ROME DEMANDS

French Ambassador Leaves Chamber as Italians Cry for Colonies.

ROME, Nov. 30.—(UP)—The new French ambassador to Rome, Andre Francois-Poncet, walked out of the chamber of deputies today when a speech by Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano was interrupted by loud demands for return of Italy's former territories now under French rule. Shouts of "Tunisia! Savoy! Nice! Corsica!" interrupted Ciano as he disclosed that during the Czechoslovak crisis Italy's armed forces were ready to go to the immediate aid of Germany in event of a general European war.

The shouts were repeated later in Venice Square, outside the palace of Premier Benito Mussolini. Significance was attached to the chamber shouting since it occurred in the presence of Ambassador Francois-Poncet, sent here to seek a pact of Italo-French friendship.

AIR BASE PLANNED IN PUERTO RICO

Naval Field in San Juan Harbor Projected.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The United States Navy Department has approved a proposal for building a naval air base on Isla Grande in San Juan harbor and asked the Puerto Rico government today that the site be transferred preparatory to its use by the navy.

A five-man naval commission, headed by Rear Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, studied the site last September 16 in a survey of means of strengthening the United States' Atlantic defenses. The insular government already had started building an airport on Isla Grande.

A preliminary estimate set the cost at $4,000,000.

NEW JURY ORDERED FOR MCDONALD PLEA

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Superior Judge Smith today discharged the jury that convicted Charles E. McDonald of assault with a deadly weapon for shooting Mrs. Emila Krueger and ordered a new jury impaneled to hear McDonald's plea of innocent by reason of insanity.

Judge Smith made no explanation of his action. Court attaches said it was customary for the same jury that hears a case to rule also on insanity pleas.

Ramspeck Urges Wage Exemption In High Brackets

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP) Representative Robert Ramspeck, Democrat, Georgia, suggested today exemption of persons in higher wage brackets from provisions of the federal wage-hour law and criticized administration of the Wagner labor act.

Ramspeck said he didn't know just where the dividing line between lower and higher wage brackets might be fixed but said he felt the wage-hour law was "too inflexible" and recommended the house labor committee review administration of both this and the Wagner act.

He said he would oppose any amendments to the Wagner act tending to destroy workers' freedom to choose their own representatives, but said he felt the labor board had "misconstrued the purposes of the act."

"The board apparently has been acting as an advocate and a prosecutor and that's where the trouble arises," he said.

LEWIS IS OPPOSED TO PROFIT-SHARING

CIO Head Declares Plans Are 'Snare and a Delusion.'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(UP)—John L. Lewis, head of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, today told a senate committee that industrial profit-sharing plans are a "snare and a delusion" to workers, and described President Roosevelt's projected annual wage as "desirable but impossible."

Charging that profit-sharing plans have been used in many instances as a "device to avoid the payment of an immediate decent wage" and that they have made labor "dependent upon haphazard policies of management," Lewis told the senate group studying this phase of industrial life that the chief hope of the workers to improve their lot lies in collective bargaining.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, took the same position when he testified before the committee.

CIO CITRUS WORKERS STRIKE AT LAKELAND

LAKELAND, Fla., Nov. 30.—(UP)—A strike by a union of pickers affiliated with the Congress for Industrial Organizations tonight seriously hampered the citrus industry in this heart of the grapefruit and orange section.

An estimated 700 pickers were on strike, tying up operations of six packing houses in this section. The strike was called by the United Cannery, Agricultural, Packing and Allied Workers of America, a CIO affiliate. The union charged packers had reduced wages for picking citrus fruit when the rate pay was changed.

MISSIONS BOARD VOTES PENSIONS FOR EMPLOYEES

Baptist Group Approves Retirement Payments; Budget for Year Adopted at Session Held Here.

Annuities for its more than 350 employees were provided yesterday by the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention in an all-day session here devoted to financial affairs. It approved a total budget for next year of $480,000.

The annuity plan, submitted by Dr. T. J. Watts, of Dallas, provides payment of full salaries to employees who retire after 25 years' service, with corresponding pension benefits for those retiring at 60 years, for women, or at 65 years, for men.

Funds to finance the plan will be derived by assessing employees 3 per cent of their salaries, this amount to be matched by the Home Mission Board, the money being turned over to the relief and annuity board.

Gratified by the prospect of being out of debt by 1945, the board adopted a budget for the new year, the amount representing an increase of $12,000 over 1938. Indications of the debt clearance were seen in the report of Dr. J. B. Lawrence, of Atlanta, executive secretary and treasurer of the board, who stated that collections for the first 10 months of the current year amounted to $444,094, an increase of $18,249, or 4 per cent, over the same period in 1937.

Excellent financial status of the board was further exemplified in the report of B. M. Callaway, of Atlanta, chairman of the church building and loan fund, who reported that repayments from churches which had accepted loans were increasing. The fund at present has in excess of $1,330,000 available for repair and construction of church buildings.

Work in Cuba. Reports of mission work in Cuba and among negroes were highlights of the morning session, during which all officers of the Home Mission Board were re-elected. Dr. M. M. McCall, of Havana, in a summary of the work in his district, pointed out that so great had been the progress in the last few years that the Sunday school buildings and auditoriums were far too small to accommodate the people attending services.

Work among the negroes is now being carried out in 12 schools in 10 states, according to Dr. Noble Y. Bell, of Atlanta, a field secretary. Since the plan went into effect September 1, Dr. Bell said, 909 students are being cared for, including 209 ministerial students.

Persecution Result. Rev. Jacob Gartenhaus, of Atlanta, field secretary, reported that a better attitude toward Christianity is being shown by Jews in America since the persecutions in Czechoslovakia and other European countries. Conditions abroad, the field secretary said, have resulted in a universal turning toward the gospel on the part of American Jewry.

Re-elected for the ensuing term were Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, of Atlanta, president; Rev. K. O. White, Atlanta, vice president; G. Frank Garrison, Atlanta, recording secretary, and Dr. J. B. Lawrence, Atlanta, executive secretary and treasurer.

Home Mission Board Votes Pensions for Its Employees

DALADIER CRUSHES GENERAL WALKOUT

periled France's international standing. You proved that democracy can prevent disorder and anarchy. The world today knows that France has triumphed over domestic uncertainty.

"Fruitful Co-operation." "The government will organize in fruitful co-operation with labor and employers with the laws as the framework."

The ministry of the interior in a communique at midnight said complete calm had returned to the whole country and that no grave incidents had been reported in connection with the strike attempt. Workers were thanked for their "high sense of duty."

(The Associated Press reported that labor disorders broke out in eight French cities tonight. At Toulouse large groups of workers paraded through the main streets of the city, smashing windows of stores and automobiles.)

The strike was a success only in two trades—building and dock workers—and was a major failure in the great industrial, mining and transport centers such as Paris, Lyons, Marseilles and Lille where the CGT had promised to "tie up everything" for 24 hours.

Jouhaux, sorting over the pessimistic reports from union leaders throughout the country, admitted that the strike had failed to achieve its purpose.

Doomed at Birth. The strike was doomed, almost at the hour it began, when the government moved thousands of troops and mobile guards into vital spots and began operating trains, subways, buses and utilities under its military conscription decree.

Workers, facing prison if they rebelled against the Daladier decrees calling them to the colors at army pay to keep the wheels

Simultaneous Fires At Adjoining Homes

WAYCROSS, Ga., Nov. 30.—For the first time in the memory of veterans of the fire department, simultaneous calls were sounded this week from adjoining homes.

Separate fire companies answered the two calls, on Church street. The blazes started from separate causes.

One house was virtually demolished while firemen were extinguishing the neighboring blaze.

turning, rejected the CGT orders and remained on the job.

Others, noting collapse of the strike, hurried back to their jobs by the thousands rather than risk punishment under the virtual state of military rule.

The strike, called for a show-down on Daladier's suspension of the 40-hour week and relaxation of labor's other militantly won benefits under the Blum regime of 1936, failed in the vital industries where the CGT had been regarded as strongest—steel, railroads, utilities, mines and government offices.

Jouhaux, former Premier Leon Blum and other leaders of the leftists blamed Daladier's military conscription for "frightening" the workers into disobeying the Confederation's orders.

Troops and police put down sporadic outbreaks of violence, mostly in the northern "red belt" cities such as Valenciennes and Lille, and an estimated 1,000 or 1,200 demonstrators were arrested.

At Valenciennes, where strikers of the metal industries battled police and mobile guards, civil courts sat in constant session throughout the day sentencing strikers as fast as they were arrested.

The government prepared to punish within 24 hours the 35,000 or 40,000 civil service employees, the 4,500 transport workers and small numbers of utility workers who joined the walkout.

Government and municipal employees may be summarily discharged and lose their seniority and rights to damages as provided under the French labor laws for ordinary workers.

The government denied that Blum, Jouhaux or any Communist party leaders would be arrested. It was understood, however, Jouhaux eventually might be punished by stripping him of some of his remunerative positions by decree.

Daladier's immediate plans remained uncertain but it was indicated that he would capitalize upon his new prestige by ordering full-speed ahead to his "policy of peace," in collaboration with Great Britain on a four-power plan of appeasement with the dictators.

He accused the Leftist labor leaders of staging the strike at the urging of the Communists, who oppose his new "no-more-war" agreement with Nazi Germany.

Within a few days German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop is expected to come to Paris to sign the anti-war agreement, patterned after a similar pledge which Chancellor Hitler and British Prime Minister Chamberlain signed at Munich on September 30.

"I am satisfied with the result," Daladier said in commenting upon the outcome of the strike.

"I never doubted the good sense of the civil servants."

Defeat of the strike appeared to have removed interest from scheduled "rump parliament" called by Blum to convene in the chamber of deputies Friday morning for a mock trial of Daladier by Communists, Socialists and a few dissident Radical-Socialists of the premier's own party.

UNITED MONGOLIA SOUGHT BY PUPPET

Head of Japanese-Established Nation Moves Against Russian Expansion.

HOOHO (KEWISUI), Suiyuan Province, China, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The head of the Japanese-established "Inner Mongolian nation" said today he hoped to unite all of Mongolia, including Soviet-Russian dominated Outer Mongolia, under one rule.

(Such a move would eliminate Outer Mongolia as a buffer state between Japanese dominated parts of China and Soviet Russia and extend some 1,800 miles the frontier between Russia and Japanese-ruled areas.)

Prince Teh, who heads the present Inner Mongolian regime, made this statement as the government prepared to celebrate one year's sway over the highly strategic area of the Mongolian plateau.

Japanese officials disclosed today they planned to build here a modern city rivaling Hsinking, capital of Manchoukuo. Nomadic Mongol warriors here were described as having the same spirit which carried Genghis Khan's hordes over Asia.

JAPANESE LAUNCH DRIVE ON WUCHOW SHANGHAI, Thursday, Dec. 1. (UP)—Japanese forces based on Canton today launched a new drive on Wuchow gateway to Kwangsi province, as part of the "nut-cracker" attack on Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Hengyang defense triangle in Hunan province.

Navigation conditions in the Yangtze have improved to a point where it will be safe for American, British and French warships, long bottled up in the middle reaches of the river, to return to Shanghai for overhauling. Rear Admiral Koshiro Okawa, Japanese naval commander, informed the naval representatives of the powers here.

License Forgotten By Counterfeiter

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP) Failure of a counterfeiter to observe traffic regulations may land him in jail.

Assistant Postmaster Gene Ramsey S. Black cautioned postmasters throughout the country today against accepting newly-reported counterfeit $10 bills.

The bills are of "fairly good workmanship," Black said, but the counterfeiter forgot to engrave a license plate on an automobile appearing in a picture of the treasury.

The Bradley trial got under way this morning after Judge Davis overruled Allen's request to quash the lottery indictment on grounds that State Senator-elect Walter Estes, foreman of the grand jury, was "not a resident of Clayton county."

Leathers Prosecutes.

The prosecution was handled by Solicitor Roy Leathers, and witnesses for the state included Patrolmen Carroll, Wilson, Duncan and Bradford and Lieutenant Wells, of Fulton county police, who made the raid.

W. T. Jones, foreman, announced the verdict against Bradley at 1:20 o'clock this afternoon. Sentence was deferred, but Leathers pointed out lottery is a misdemeanor, carrying penalties of a $1,000 maximum fine, 12 months in public works and six months in jail.

Allen said he "didn't know when Mrs. Gurol would appear in court," but that she would be "available when needed."

Leathers said a warrant for Sheriff Adamson, indicted by the grand jury Monday, "probably would be served in the morning." A total of 40 indictments were returned by the grand jury in what Solicitor Leathers termed a "campaign to clean Clayton county of undesirable elements."

SANTA TO GET HIS HEAVIEST YULE BAG

merce figures show that business has a long way to go before it reaches the peak of the three big spring months of 1937, although department estimates indicate that one-half of the lost ground has now been regained. Figures of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States show that only one-fourth recovery has so far been attained.

There is a shortage of houses nearly everywhere. Some of the current pickup in construction is in residential units; there should be a decided increase in this line of construction within a few months.

Public works also represent a part of the improvement in construction fields, but such government spending will be felt mainly in increased employment during the new year, most of the contracts having been let for execution in early 1939.

The administration's proposed armament program, with heavy outlays for airplanes and sea-going vessels, is bound to pep up scores of businesses directly or indirectly concerned with naval construction.

British 'Fuehrer' Reveals Wedding Two Years Ago; Son Born Saturday

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Sir Oswald Mosley, British Fascist leader, announced today that he married blonde, Nazi-admiring Mrs. Diana Guinness about two years ago and that a son was born to them last Saturday.

In a long statement in Action, the journal of the British Union of Fascists, Sir Oswald said, "It is now necessary to publish the facts of my marriage," and that "both mother and son are doing well."

The statement omitted the place and exact date of the ceremony. Sir Oswald denied, by implication, two days ago that the wedding occurred in Munich or Berlin last December with Hitler or other high Nazi officials present.

Sir Oswald is 40. The bride is 28. Like her younger sister, Unity Freeman-Mitford, Lady Mosley is a close friend and admirer of Hitler. She and Bryan Guinness, of the brewing family, were divorced in 1933. By that marriage she had two sons, Desmond and Jonathan, who greet callers with upraised right arms and "Heil Hitler!" Their sister Jessica, the third daughter of Baron Redesdale, married Winston Churchill's leftist nephew, Esmond Romilly, formerly of the Spanish International Brigade, and is said to share his views.

Sir Oswald's first wife, Lady Blanche Curzon, daughter of the late Marquess Curzon of Kedleston and a granddaughter of the late Lord Z. Leiter of Chicago, died in 1933.

Sir Oswald said in the newspaper article his wife is an enthusiastic worker in his cause. He said the marriage was secret because "it is obvious that certain risks are attached to my life and it was my strong desire that no woman should share them."

Last week he and his followers congratulated themselves in the columns of Action for saving Britain "from the curse of a mass immigration of thousands and thousands of ghetto Jews from central Europe."

RADIO 'GHOST WAVE' BLAMED FOR CRASH

Barrage of Sunspot Energy Also Listed as Contributing Factor.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—(AP)—A radio "ghost wave" and a barrage of sunspot energy possibly played sinister parts, scientists said tonight, in the loss of an airliner and five of its seven occupants in the Pacific yesterday morning.

Following up the report of United Air Line officials that radio reception was "too good," causing Pilot Charles B. Stead to become confused over a strange multiplicity of signals, radio engineers said there were plenty of technical considerations to support the unusual theory.

The big ship ran into squally weather and off its course en route to Oakland, Calif., from Medford, Ore. Pilot Stead ran out of fuel while groping to get back on his course and landed nearly at sea near Point Reyes, 35 miles short of his goal. All occupants climbed out on the wings and five of them drowned when heavy surf dashed the craft against the rocky shore.

While Civil Aeronautics Authority officials projected an official investigation, Dr. L. E. Rukema, associate professor of radio engineering at the University of California, suggested the "ghost wave" and sunspot factors as a theory of the tragedy.

Pointing to the flight log showing Stead as believing there was "something wrong" with the radio beam long before the plane got into actual trouble, Dr. Rukema said the difficulty possibly was due to the peculiarity of overlapping directional radio signals. Pilots refer to these overlapping signals as "ghost beams."

Sunspot activity, which frequently plays tricks with radio traffic, could easily have accounted for the "too good" radio reception. This supposedly gave the plane strong signals from Salt Lake City and other distant stations but apparently nothing from near-by Oakland, the station whose beam Stead was trying frantically to find.

Anthony Gerhard, radio engineer for Press Wireless, Inc., reported a radio "blackout" between the United States and the Orient a few hours after the tragedy. Both Gerhard and Dr. Rukema said sunspots not only caused the blackout, but likely induced the condition which confused Stead.

PEACE OR ANARCHY FOR WORLD—HULL

Lima Conference Will Give Impetus to First, Secretary Declares.

CRISTOBAL, C. Z., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull said today the world was at a crossroads, with one course leading to peace and the other to war and anarchy.

"I am confident that the coming meeting at Lima," his statement said, "will be a constructive factor in favor of the first course (peace) which is the way of the American republics."

"At this focal point of inter-American communications by sea and air and land, we cannot but be impressed by the natural opportunities offered to all of us for a highly profitable interchange. This interchange is not only that of trade, but the more important exchange of ideas, culture and friendship."

F. D. R. MAY ADDRESS PARLEY BY TELEPHONE (Copyright, 1938, by United Press.) LIMA, Peru, Nov. 30.—President Roosevelt may address the eighth Pan American conference by radio telephone from Washington at its opening session December 9. It was reported tonight, while Peruvian authorities were hopeful he might visit Lima personally before the parley ends. Reports were circulated that Mr. Roosevelt planned a last-minute announcement of a fast trip by warship to this city to attend the inaugural session. The short time still remaining until the opening of the conference, however, was believed to preclude any such voyage.

New International "ECONOMY SIX" Engine Saves on Light-Duty Jobs

International sizes range from 1/4-ton to powerful six-wheelers. Thirty models, 99 wheelbase lengths.

International Harvester builds three of its lighter trucks with 6-cylinder engines in two sizes as optional equipment. This enables you to choose an International Truck in the 1/4-ton to 1 1/2-ton field for maximum performance and economy in your kind of work.

If you haul capacity loads most of the time you will want the standard full-power engine. If your loads are light and your work calls for frequent idling stops, it may be to your advantage to choose the HD-174 engine known as the International "Economy Six." Come in and let us make a diagnosis of your operating conditions and recommend the best engine for your service.

HOSPITALS PLAN ADVANCES CITED AT MEETING HERE

Gains in Atlanta Are Re-counted; System for Entire State Foreseen by Director of Service.

Foreseeing the time when group hospitalization would be a fixture in every community of the state, Charles J. Anderson of Atlanta, executive director of the United Hospitals Service Association of Atlanta, last night reported an increase of 6,156 members and 171 groups in the local association since the inauguration of the plan last November.

Speaking at a supper meeting of the board of directors at St. Joseph's Hospital, Anderson said 362 groups with a total membership of 10,811 members at present comprise the Atlanta association. Of the total membership, 7,642 are original subscribers and 3,169 dependents, the executive secretary said. At the initial meeting of the group, held last June at Piedmont Hospital, membership was reported at 4,855, with participating groups being placed at 198.

Indicative of the success of the plan, according to Anderson, is the fact that since the first of November, 30 groups, with a total membership of 1,107 have been enrolled in the local association.

Since the inauguration of the group hospitalization plan a year ago, 541 hospitals bills totalling $30,378.50 have been paid, the executive director reported, 100 of these bills, amounting to $6,093.80, being paid during November.

Discussing further activities of the association, Anderson said that since the inauguration of the family plan June 16, the organization has paid out $4,191.75 in hospital bills for 84 dependents, 26 of the bills being paid during November. The amount was placed at $1,463.10.

Paid to hospitals holding membership in the association since January 1 was $30,373.50, Anderson said, the average bill being $49.90.

W. D. Barker, superintendent of Georgia Baptist hospital and treasurer of the association, reported total receipts for the 11-month period amounting to $60,883, with disbursements totalling $47,678.06, leaving a balance of $12,205.04.

Before the close of the meeting the executive director presented by Dr. G. Pope Huguley, a vice president of the association and director representing St. Joseph's hospital, a check covering bills for service rendered by that hospital.

MRS. MIDDLEBROOK SUCCUMBS HERE

Widow of Covington Lawyer Dies at Daughter's Home.

Mrs. L. L. Middlebrook, 81, widow of Colonel L. L. Middlebrook, of Covington, died yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. D. Boyd, 309 Murrayhill avenue.

Her husband, a well-known attorney of Covington and veteran of the Confederate army, was at one time a candidate for governor.

Surviving, beside Mrs. Boyd, are another daughter, Mrs. J. R. Cook, of Cleveland, Ohio; three brothers, J. T. Corley, of Marietta; W. W. Corley, of Atlanta, and W. T. Corley, of Murrenville, Ga., and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at Spring Hill with burial at Covington.

BRIDE IS KILLED BY HIT-RUN TRUCK

McCurdy pronounced the young woman dead. He said she "probably suffered a fractured skull," but did not make a complete examination.

Patrolmen White and Wingo immediately broadcast a warning for the truck, after being called to the scene by Chief of Police Lanford. The truck was described as "big bodied."

As news of the accident spread in Stone Mountain, Chief Lanford said a man told him he saw a truck leave the main highway and go out of town, toward Tucker, by roads skirting Stone Mountain.

Chief Lanford said his informant gave a "pretty good" description of the truck, and that he then went to Tucker and found the truck at a grocery store.

A small felt hat was in the cab of the truck, Chief Lanford said. He added that the hat was identified as belonging to Mrs. Adams, by her mother, Mrs. Josephine Pittman, and her husband, Chief Lanford then arrested Digsby, who denied knowledge of the hat or striking the woman.

Digsby was placed in the DeKalb county jail at Decatur.

Besides her husband and mother, Mrs. Adams is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Duren Farmer, Mrs. Millard T. Adams, and the Misses Cynthia and Jacqueline Pittman, and a brother, G. R. Pittman. Mrs. Adams was married about a year ago.

'Pay Day' for Hospital in Co-operative Body

It was "pay day" for St. Joseph's hospital last night as directors of the United Hospitals Service Association of Atlanta held their first anniversary there. Shown at left is Charles J. Anderson, executive director of the association, handing a check for payment of services to Dr. G. Pope Huguley, a vice president and representative of the hospital on the directorate, as Dr. L. C. Fischer, president (standing), looks on.

Courts Hear Wide Variety of Cases From Drinking Driver to Murder

The gamut of human behavior was run yesterday in various Fulton county criminal courts and ranged from bad check charges to murder.

Mrs. C. N. Thibaut, expectant mother, was jailed on order of Judge Luther Z. Rosser, of the municipal court, in default of $100 bond in each of five cases for allegedly passing checks when she had insufficient funds.

Among the alleged victims were leading merchants, dry cleaners, drug store operators. The total amount involved was about $125.

Mrs. J. N. Hanson, 567 Capitol avenue, was bound over to the criminal court of Fulton county on $100 bond for allegedly assaulting Miss Jane Cavendish, 1302 West Peachtree street, who formerly roomed at Mrs. Hanson's boarding house.

According to court officials, Miss Cavendish moved from Mrs. Hanson's place, and Mrs. Hanson visited her. While Miss Cavendish was lying on a bed, propped up on a pillow, Mrs. Hanson is alleged to have declared:

"That pillow belongs to me." With that, she is said to have snatched the pillow from under Miss Cavendish's head. When Miss Cavendish protested and said the pillow belonged to the apartment, Mrs. Hanson beat her, according to charges.

Willie Glenn Hines, negro, was found guilty of murder and recommended for mercy, which means life imprisonment, in the death of another negro, Charlie Shedrick, Halloween night. Five others accused of the murder.

CITIZENS ORGANIZE STATE ROAD LEAGUE

Statesboro Banker Named Temporary Chairman of Motorists.

Dr. R. J. Kennedy, Statesboro banker, yesterday was named temporary chairman of a newly organized "Citizens Road League" to provide a state-wide motorists' organization, three-fold in purpose, it was announced.

First of these purposes was said to be to assure a sound, business-like highway plan, based on the state-wide highway planning survey now being made by the State Highway Department and the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads; second—to see that all revenues derived from motorists are expended for highway purposes only; and third—to lead the way toward reducing the motor accident toll by building safety into Georgia's highways.

Colonel W. M. Kemper, executive assistant to Governor James H. Price of Virginia, former president of the Citizens Road League of Virginia, who was invited to yesterday's organization meeting to describe the activities and accomplishments of the Virginia League, told the group that Virginia motorists had found it advisable to cooperate in solving their common problems.

Colonel Kemper pointed out that as the entire cost of highway transportation is borne by the motorist, he should have a voice in the business of providing transportation facilities.

Beware The Cough From a common cold That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements found in many cough remedies, such as Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, and fluid extract of Licorice Root, but it also has fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect. Fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect, and most important of all, Beechwood Creosote nicely blended with all of these so that it will reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Thousands of people, who really know their drugs, use Creomulsion in their own families, realizing that this excellent preparation aids nature to soothe the inflamed mucous membranes, to heal the irritated tissues, and to loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm. POLICE START WAR ON TRAFFIC DEATHS

50 Killed and 1,279 Injured During Year, Records Disclose.

As Atlanta's traffic toll for 1938 rose yesterday to 50 killed and 1,279 injured, city police expressed the determination to curb the mounting figure "at all costs."

The toll for November was eight killed and 105 injured as compared to eight killed and 139 injured last month. Traffic fatalities for November of 1937 were two, with 145 injured.

"The department hates to see it go that way," Captain Malcom commented, "but it means we'll just have to beat down that much more in December."

For the first 11 months of 1937 there were 51 persons slain in traffic accidents, one more than in the same period this year. Injuries up to December of 1937 were 1,476—197 more than this year.

In 1937 59 persons were killed: 85 in 1936; 79 in 1935, and 77 in 1934.

Although the traffic toll for 1938 is well under the average for the past several years, Captain Malcom said the department would not be satisfied until a marked improvement was gained and maintained, if not bettered year by year.

The case, aired in Judge Jesse M. Wood's criminal court of Fulton county, cost Gazaway $65 and Holland, owner of the car, drew a three-month suspended sentence.

Judge Jesse M. Wood of the criminal court of Fulton county, was told that Holland had been drinking and permitted Gazaway to drive the car, electing to take the back seat and rest.

Gazaway, according to testimony, misjudged his own sobriety, ran over a red traffic stop light on Lakewood avenue and was promptly arrested by a state highway patrolman.

To add to the consternation of the pair, it developed that Gazaway had no driver's license.

When he appeared before Judge Wood, he was fined $50 for driving while drinking and running over the light, and $15 for driving without a driver's license, a total of $65.

Holland pleaded guilty to a charge of allowing Gazaway to drive his car without a license and was given a three-month suspended sentence.

FINAL RITES TODAY FOR TUCKER WYNNE

Auto Crash Victim Will Be Buried in Mount Zion Cemetery.

Funeral services for Tucker Wynne, 81, of 743 Bonaventure avenue, who died Tuesday night in a private hospital from injuries received when struck by an automobile at Ponce de Leon avenue, near Bonaventure, three weeks ago, will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill. The Rev. E. L. Barlow will officiate, and burial will be in Mount Zion cemetery.

The death of Mr. Wynne makes the fifth traffic fatality for the year in Atlanta, it was announced yesterday by Captain Jack Malcom, head of the traffic bureau of the Atlanta Police Department. Previously traffic officials had been undecided whether or not to assign the auto accident as the reason for death.

A native of Gwinnett county, Mr. Wynne had lived in Atlanta almost all of his life. He was a retired furniture dealer.

HENRY FORD SAYS HE'S NO PRO-NAZI

DETROIT, Nov. 30.—(P)—Henry Ford said in a statement tonight that his acceptance of a decoration from the German government "does not involve any sympathy on my part with Nazism."

The motor magnate added that "it is my opinion that the German people, as a whole, are not in sympathy with their rulers in their anti-Jewish policies, which is the work of a few war-makers at the top."

'Swamp Councilmen With Letters For Traffic Changes,' Mayor Asks

Hartsfield Calls on Citizens To Exert So Much Pressure That Regulations Will Be Enacted To Stop Slaughter on Atlanta's Streets.

Believing that the pen, the pencil, and the typewriter are more powerful than swords, Mayor Hartsfield yesterday called upon an army of letter-writing Atlantans to appeal to city council for enactment of traffic regulations to eliminate congestion and reduce accidents.

The mayor insisted that recent efforts to pass new laws designed by traffic experts to relieve acute traffic conditions were blocked, mostly through the efforts of a few merchants who were of the opinion that such moves would hurt business more than they would help traffic.

He commented that, to the contrary, unless something is done quickly about the jammed downtown streets, cluttered and clogged by trucks, vans and buses, business will suffer both temporarily and permanently.

His remarks, however, were not confined to the aspect of traffic congestion and business. He pointed out that the number of deaths from automobile accidents is steadily mounting and is tragically near the mark of 59 made last year.

"I am going to propose that the Providence, R. I. plan of enforcing a 25-mile per hour speed limit be adopted by Atlanta," he said. "It has been proved that slower speed saves lives, and also streets."

HIGHER RAIL RATES ON COAL EXTENDED

Roads Win Indefinite I. C. C.
Continuation of Temporary Freight Increases.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The nation's railroads won an indefinite extension today of the temporary increases in freight rates on bituminous coal.

Granting the carriers' request "in view of the present level of railroad expenses and taxes," the Interstate Commerce Commission said the rates were "just and reasonable and will be so for the indefinite future."

Class 1 railroads have estimated the increases, which range from 3 to 15 cents per net ton, depending upon the length of the haul, will add $19,374,421 to their 1938 revenues. The increases, authorized in November, 1937, have expired December 31.

27,985 LEAVE WPA DURING PAST WEEK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The Works Progress Administration said today that 27,985 persons left the WPA rolls during the week ending November 5.

This brought the enrollment to 3,215,564, a decline of 47,105 from the record high of 3,262,669 reached on November 5.

The report showed that Georgia rolls had fallen from 71,948 to 70,788.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Directors of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange said tonight they were willing to reveal to President Roosevelt personally a plan for remedying the cotton situation.

Mr. Roosevelt chided the board for not including in its annual report a solution of cotton's trade troubles. The report criticized present governmental policies.

The board issued a statement saying "that among the exchange's membership is a plan which the board believes will remedy the situation as it exists today." The board refused to disclose the nature of the plan, but said it was willing at any time to appoint a committee to confer with the President, Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace or members of congress.

ATLANTA FLIGHT ENDS IN CRACKUP

Army Flyer 'Joins' Caterpillar Club.

What started as a routine flight from Montgomery to Atlanta and back ended with Captain A. J. Malone of the Air Corps becoming a full-fledged member of the Caterpillar Club, Maxwell Field authorities in Montgomery reported yesterday, when the wreckage of his plane was brought in on a truck.

Captain Malone, it was said, bailed out of the plane when the motor failed above rugged terrain about 15 miles from Montgomery. He landed without injury, but the plane was splintered.

WILLKIE PROPOSES DIVISION OF UTILITY

Plan for SEC Would Split Holdings Into Southern,
Northern Groups.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP)—All major utility holding companies tonight had met the December 1 deadline set by Chairman William O. Douglas, of Securities and Exchange Commission, for filing voluntary integration plans under the holding company act of 1935.

Today's additions were the following:

The $488,000,000 American Gas & Electric Co.
The $1,194,000,000 Commonwealth & Southern Corporation.
And the $1,037,000,000 Associated Gas & Electric Co.

In the meantime, Wendell Willkie, president of Commonwealth & Southern, was said to have repeated his recent public offer to sell any or all Southern Commonwealth properties to the TVA at appraisals determined by the SEC.

Willkie was said to have proposed dividing all Commonwealth & Southern properties into two groups—northern and southern. All the southern properties are interconnected.

They include: Georgia Power Company, South Carolina Power Company, Gulf Power Company (in Florida), Mississippi Power Company, Alabama Power Company and Tennessee Electric Power Company.

(Officials of the Georgia Power Company declined last night to comment on the development in New York.)

While sale of Commonwealth properties to TVA would provide cash for acquisition of a rounded out southern system, the Willkie plan is said to set forth, remaining Commonwealth southern properties would not be attractive enough to the investor to stand on their own feet as a separate system unless the TVA definitely delimits future competitive operations.

Consequently, Willkie was described as contending, no definite plan for the southern group could be drawn up until a TVA understanding is reached.

NO TVA DISHONESTY, PROBERS REPORT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—A representative of the general accounting office told congressional investigators today that so far as he knew there had been "no dishonesty worth investigating" in TVA's vast expenditures.

Stuart B. Tulloss, chief investigator of the accounting office, testified there had been some "minor shortages" in accounts, most of which had been made up, but that he knew of no criminal intent to defraud.

His statement, made before the joint senate-house committee investigating TVA, was concurred in by William A. Owen and Francis T. Matchett, assistant investigators.

RAILS EMBARGO BEEF FOR CHICAGO

Accept Shipments Orders Direct to Packers.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Railroads placed an embargo on shipments of livestock to the strike-bound market at the Chicago stock yards today.

The action was announced by E. L. Kemp, representative of the rail lines at the yards, at the end of the tenth day of a dispute that has halted normal operations at the huge center.

He explained the carriers would refuse to accept meat animals consigned to commission men who act as sales agents at the yards for farmers of the midwest, but that they would continue to transport cattle, sheep and hogs sent directly to packing houses here.

ATLANTA UNAFFECTED BY RAILS EMBARGO.

Action of the railroads in placing an embargo on shipments of livestock to the strike-bound yards at the Chicago stock yards yesterday is expected to have little, if any, effect on the local market, Atlanta commission men stated last night.

Atlanta packers explained little meat is received here from the northwest market—the major portion shipped into Atlanta is received from markets in Kansas City, Sioux City, St. Louis and St. Joseph, Mo., and Oklahoma.

PUREBRED LIVESTOCK.

OGLETHORPE, Ga., Nov. 30.—In line with a pure-bred livestock program which is being sponsored in Macon county, 16 Black Angus and White-faced Hereford calves were delivered this week to 4-H Club boys of the county. The boys were aided in financing the purchases by the Bank of Oglethorpe and the calves will be fattened for the Fat Cattle Shows in Macon and Columbus in the spring.

Child Marriage Laxity Assailed By State Solon

Greater restriction on child marriages in Georgia will be proposed in legislation to be offered by Representative Luther U. Bloodworth, of Bibb county, when the general assembly convenes in January.

Bloodworth said laxity of some ordinaries permits minors to obtain marriage licenses without disclosing their true ages. He added he would urge amendment of the law to permit the parents of either husband or wife to sue the ordinary directly, instead of through the ordinary's clerk as is now required. Half of any verdict won against the official would go to the state school fund, Bloodworth said, while the other half would be retained by the plaintiff.

Benning Grice, also representative from Bibb county, said he planned to seek enactment of additional highway safety legislation and simplification of Georgia's legal procedure.

Bloodworth, Grice and B. F. Merritt Jr., all of Macon, attended a pre-legislative conference here yesterday with Governor Rivers.

BANKHEAD ATTACKS WELFARE MEETING

Had Minor Part on Birmingham Program.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 30.—(UP)—Critics of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare had a new ally tonight in Senator John H. Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, who criticized delegates as "visionary shallow thinkers who do not understand fundamental southern conditions."

"It is quite evident that the conference was not composed of intelligent, representative and wise citizens of the southern states," Bankhead said. He had a minor part in the conference.

ATLANTA, GA., DECEMBER 1, 1938.

OF HUMAN LIBERTY

Dr. Oliver Cromwell Carmichael, chancellor of Vanderbilt University, speaking on "Liberty vs. Security" at the convention of the Southern States Industrial Council, closed his address with the quotation from Benjamin Franklin, "They that can give up essential liberty to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety."

He traced, in his talk, the change that has taken place during the last century in a world that, in so far as millions of its people are concerned, seems today willing to abandon all liberalism in favor of a fancied security, even under despotic dictatorship.

At the same time he pointed to evidences of a similar trend in the United States, a country conceived as a shrine of democracy and freedom for the individual. The dawn of liberalism in human society, he said, came at Runnymede, with the Magna Carta, and reached its high noon when the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States were written.

It seems to be inevitable, in the affairs of man, that as social problems become more and more involved, there shall be a tendency toward sacrifice of full liberty in favor of bureaucratic control of many human affairs. It is easy to attempt to answer a general problem by setting up a new administrative office and passing the responsibility, together with a new parcel of authority, to officialdom.

It is a truism that the greatest losses of human liberty occur in the name of high moral purpose. With the noblest-sounding motives, ever new groups persuade the people to submit to new paternalisms, new regulations of life, new restrictions upon the right of the individual to freedom of action.

Not so many years ago, the individual man or woman of almost any race or nation, knew, without question, that there was full liberty to travel anywhere upon this earth. Then, to meet the exigencies of industry and to control the shifting sands of human population, restraints began to be imposed upon individual travelers. The United States adopted laws to restrict immigration. Quotas were set up until, today, none can come to live in this country unless they have been numbered, like so many sheep, in the quota for that year.

Passport regulations, between different countries, even those of North America, became much more rigid after the World War. Today it is necessary, even, to secure the proper permits before a citizen of the United States may step across the border into Canada, a boundary line no more significant than the boundary between Georgia and Tennessee.

It is not intended, here, to criticize the immigration laws. Probably they, and their quotas, are desirable. Yet they slice away a large segment of human liberty and forbid to millions of men and women access to large portions of a world that God gave for the whole enjoyment of all His people.

Restrictions as to hours of work and rates of wages, while they may be profitable to the great mass of workers, at the same time are serious inroads upon human liberty. Social security laws take out of the hands of the individual a great privilege of human liberty, the privilege of providing for one's own; they make of generosity a machine-operated function of the government.

They may, all of them, be good. But every American citizen must remember it is impossible to ask any mass benefit of government, without a commensurate surrender of liberty, either our own or that of other peoples.

And all such surrenders must be evaluated in the words of Franklin, with the realization that, if sacrifice of freedom goes too far, we shall deserve, and get, neither liberty nor safety. Only revolution.

For the next crack out of Adolf we have the crushing rejoinder: We'll give him credit for that peace at Munich.

New standards of self-sufficiency arise from the chaos. The Fuehrer breaks with the old partner, Jehovah; the tireless Jap is making up international law as he goes along.

Again, at Pittsburgh, the old matter of one big union got nowhere, as John Lewis has a marvelous set of eyebrows for looking askance.

Middle age is the sudden realization that "the young married set" means some other crowd.

NOMINAL FRIENDSHIP

A rather confusing picture is presented in the history of the relationship of the United States with the Soviet Union during the last five years of diplomatic recognition. It illustrates that a nominal friendship can be of benefit to two countries in the matter of trade, while in neither has there been more than lip service to the ideals which were back of the renewal of relationship.

It was felt that the deeper political questions which had separated the two nations would be settled by the recognition by the United States of the revolution-born Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. This settlement was looked to with greater hope than was the trade question. Yet while trade has climbed a hundred-fold the underlying problems remain completely unsolved.

There is the question of debts, for example. Claimed by the United States is $188,000,000, against which the Soviet Union has complied claims for millions of dollars which it has paid to damage done by the American Expeditionary Force in Siberia. Negotiations broke down in 1935 and have not been renewed, with little hope that they ever will be reopened unless with an ulterior motive.

Another point which has been utterly disregarded by the Russians is that of the pledge directed at the Communist International at Moscow. It was promised then, by Commissar for Foreign Affairs Maxim Litvinov, that the Soviet Union would not permit formation on its territory of any organization aiming at the overthrow of the United States government. Yet, two years later, the International at a world convention laid these very plans. The protests of this country were to no avail. In a land where the Kremlin controls the life of the remotest village, it would "not be held responsible" for activities of the Comintern. And only the day before the observance of the fifth anniversary of the renewal of friendly relations, the Communist party newspaper "Pravda" read into the Jewish pogroms of Germany the downfall of all capitalistic countries. Totally overlooking the fact, of course, that pogroms in Russia did not end with the Czarist regimes.

Probably one of the silliest crusades in this country is "red-baiting," which goes so far beyond the actual danger when, at the same time, the government maintains ostensibly friendly relations with the source of the fever that the red-baiters magnify. Red-baiting is a manifestation of the very Fascism upon which the Comintern has now fastened its opposition. Equally ludicrous, of course, is the new-found allegiance of the American Communist party to the principles of Jefferson.

But while these internal conditions tend to strain the relations of the two countries because of the essentially different concepts of political morality and government, it at least remains that a closer understanding will only be possible by continued intercourse. It may be that in the days to come, when time has smoothed the rough spots which were to be expected, these underlying difficulties will be eliminated. A cessation of diplomatic relations would certainly not accomplish this desired goal, and in the meantime both countries are benefited.

On the whole, it may be said that the United States has gained by the resumption of contacts and that any break, despite manifest difficulties, would today be unwarranted.

HAVE YOU A BATHTUB?

It comes rather as a shock to be informed that 40 per cent of the homes in the United States do not have bathtubs. Yet that is the proportion, according to a recent survey.

If that survey has been accurately conducted it indicates there is, as yet, no need to limit the bathtub crop or to pay subsidies to bathtub manufacturers for the bathtubs they don't make. If four out of every ten homes in this country do not include a bathtub in their conveniences, it is high time somebody woke up and devised a scheme for the installation of free bathtubs or employed a number of high pressure bathtub demonstrators and salesmen.

There was a time when bathtubs were denounced by the clergy as sinful luxuries and condemned by the medical profession as subversive to good health. In fact, in the earlier days of America, some states had laws making it a criminal offense to take a bath during the winter months, on the ground the practice caused sickness which might not only kill the guilty, but spread to the unbatthed innocent.

Incidentally, the bathtub surveyors, in their report, demonstrate the value of the affirmative statement, over the negative. They do not report that 40 per cent of American homes lack bathtubs, but say "there is a bathtub in six out of every ten American homes." It sounds almost boastful, said that way.

But a careful sociologist cannot help asking, if so many habitations are without a bathtub, where do the folks keep their coal or wash the dog?

Editorial of the Day

ON THE MAKING OF WILLS.

(From the Dallas Morning News.)

Nowhere is the technicality of the legal fraternity so fond more frequently appealed to than in the case of the last will and testament of a person no longer present to defend his views in court. We are constantly urged to assure by will making disposition of our property according to our desires, and rightly so. Only we have no assurance that even with a will made under the best of legal advice our dispositions will be observed. Once duly interred, it is remarkable how an otherwise canny businessman or a perfectly normal woman can be shown to have been of weak mind, under undue influence, incapable of making a will or simply not to have meant what is said in a document that reads satisfactorily enough to anyone except a displeased relative and his lawyers.

The sanctity of a will is recognized in the courts and frequently invaded in the same. A will cannot set aside inherent rights which the law may provide certain members of the family. Conversely, no member of a family, close or distant, is entitled to participate in a share of any other property against the wish of the testator. Yet court records are replete with cases where participation has been effected on this ground and that. Our old friend, Legal Technicality, has his part in that.

Of course, if we provided that no lawyer could have a fee in a will case, the percentage of such documents that served their primary purpose would be higher. Failing that somewhat drastic, if effective remedy, living probate is a resource to which more persons of property should turn.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

SIGNIFICANT CHANGE WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—There has been a highly significant change in the treasury's approach to tax and budget problems. After these last years it may sound improbable, but the fact cannot be got around—there is a new inclination to consider taxes from the businessman's point of view.

The change is pretty well symbolized by the withdrawal from the tax field of Treasury General Counsel Herman Oliphant. Oliphant is an able and far-sighted man, whose radical tendencies have been ridiculously exaggerated, but he cannot be called business-minded in the period of the undistributed profits tax, his influence undoubtedly predominated in the treasury's tax programs. Yet he has had no sort of hand in the elaborate study of the tax structure which treasury experts are now completing.

Instead, the study's guiding mind has been that of Undersecretary John W. Hanes, a considerable businessman himself, and the leading exponent of conciliation between business and the New Deal. Since Hanes' transfer to the treasury, he and Oliphant have struck up a warm friendship. There is no question of rivalry between them. But, as Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., has virtually given Hanes carte blanche, the treasury's approach to tax problems is bound to reflect Hanes' opinions rather than Oliphant's.

TOWARD $80,000,000,000 The difference between Hanes' and Oliphant's opinions is considerable. Oliphant, a practicing economist, envisions taxation as an instrument of economic change as well as a method of raising revenue. And he is not a budget-balancer. Hanes, on the other hand, regards taxes solely as a way of getting money for the government, and believes they should be planned, not to reform the working of the economic system, but to interfere with it as little as possible. Hanes, like Secretary Morgenthau, very emphatically is a budget-balancer. He is also a believer in the importance of business confidence.

Somewhere in his tobacco-dealing ancestry, there must have been a revivalist strain. He is positively evangelical on the relationship between his two cherished projects—budget-balancing and the restoration of confidence. At the same time, he does not depart from the New Deal line so widely as Morgenthau did last autumn, when he wanted to balance the budget by severe economy. Hanes' theory is that, with an improvement of business, brought about by the restoration of confidence, the national income will rise to a point where the budget can balance itself.

Since the reversion to spending last spring, Morgenthau has come around to the Hanes view. Their joint prayer now is that the national income will reach $80,000,000,000 by 1940, in which case the budget can be balanced on the basis of present taxes. And they have real hope that their prayer will be answered.

WHERE THE FAT IS Concerning the immediate future, several interesting inferences can be drawn from Hanes' new power over taxes. In the first place, unless the President himself countermands Hanes' plans, it's very unlikely that financing national defense will be made an excuse for revitalizing the undistributed profits levy. Generally speaking, punitive or disturbing taxes on business will be avoided.

There may be no call for new taxes of any sort, for Morgenthau and Hanes are not yet convinced that the next fiscal year's armaments and relief expenditures will be big enough to necessitate more revenue.

If new taxes are called for, they will probably take the form of increased surtaxes on incomes between $10,000 and $50,000 a year. As one treasury expert rather grimly put it, "that's where the fat is." At present, total income taxes in the $10,000 to $50,000 class range only from 11 to 31 per cent. The ability to pay is there, and about $4,000,000,000 of taxable income is also there.

But never the final recommendations, they will be based on careful, realistic examination of the entire tax structure. Some may be disappointed that budget-balancing has been deferred again. But they should recognize that, in the last election, even the Republicans hesitated to raise the cry of economy. And they should remember that, unless the national income rises or the government spending apparatus is dismantled, the budget cannot be balanced without a 50 per cent increase in taxation.

Supporting

Alma Mammy.

Friend of mine, football fanatic, has a special predilection for games between negro teams. He can always be found in the section reserved for white patrons at the games at Ponce de Leon.

He is so enthusiastic about the Morris Brown team that he'll talk about the tackling and the broken field running for hours. If you'll let him, his particular favorites are a backfield man who, he swears, can hit the coffin corner, with a punt, from any place on the field, and the Morris Brown center. The center, he tells, is the "time" each week he takes position for the snap.

Of course, he will tell you, his enthusiasm is, perhaps, synthetic, but inspired simply by good football playing. "You might say," he says, "that I've gone mad. Morris Brown is a sort of 'Alma Mammy.'"

He'll Be There.

Next Saturday.

Of course, he'll be at Ponce de Leon next Saturday. In fact, from reliable-source reports, there will be a lot of other white fans out for the game between Morris Brown and the Virginia State Trojans.

These Virginia players are said to comprise the strongest negro football squad outside of the deep south, and the game Saturday is expected to provide a test between the ability of a couple of rival sections. The Virginians have played mostly northern negro teams. They are undefeated this year. But they'll meet worthy opposition in M. B. who frankly, expect to win.

The big incentive is a "Peach Bowl" game to be played at Ponce de Leon on January 2, between the outstanding colored teams of the country. The Peach Bowl team will be the winners of the game on Saturday, and one at Orlando, Fla., between Kentucky State and Florida A. & M.

Invitations to be present at Saturday's game have been sent to a lot of prominent folk, including Governor Rivers, Mayor Hartsfield, etc., etc. And I know several of the invitees who have already accepted their bids.

Ignorance

Of Geography.

President Tiger, of the University of Florida, who delivered a grand speech here Tuesday at the meeting of the Southern States Industrial Council, was chatting, afterwards, and telling something of his experiences at Oxford, England, where he went as a Rhodes scholar.

And, in giving the background for one anecdote, he remarked that he believed the average Englishman, even the university-educated one, is the most woefully ignorant on the subject of geography of any presumably educated man in the civilized world. This is probably true. They have a habit in the tight little isle of confining their geographic teaching almost entirely to that same tight little isle. The rest of the world is largely ignored.

When you recall the extent of "This morning will see the in-the far-flung British empire, or confederacy of countries and states, this is all the more remarkable. Englishmen have scattered more widely over the globe than the men of "most any other race, and have done more to open up the uncharted areas of the lands and seas.

Perhaps it is ignorance of geography that has led them so far afield. On the theory that, if they had known their geography better, they might have thought it wiser to stay at home.

However,

That Recalls—

One afternoon, on the forward deck of the R. M. S. Franconia, headed toward Liverpool, I was talking with the president of a rather large manufacturing company, of Manchester. He was a typical industrialist in appearance, apparently with at least the average education of a successful businessman. That was the summer of 1925.

He asked me where I lived and I told him, Georgia. Asked if I liked it very much, I told him. Then he said:

"That's in the south, isn't it?" "Yes," I replied.

"Do they use the same form of currency there they use in the States?" was his next question.

Then I had to give quite a lecture on elementary geography and history of the United States.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Monday, December 1, 1913:

"This morning will see the inauguration of a great whirlwind campaign on the part of over 100 loyal Atlantans, under the direction of Ivan Allen, to raise the $250,000 fund for the Oglethorpe University."

And Fifty

Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Saturday, December 1, 1888:

"Carter Harrison, of Chicago, is going into journalism. It is said that Carter is anxious to get even with the newspaper writers who have been nagging him for, for these numerous years."

Ragged Silks.

Scores of Chinese peasant women huddled together in Hongkong while large boxes of clothing sent by charity organizations from America were opened.

The foreigners in charge dug in and brought out a profusion of silk undergarments. They brought out silk panties, silk step-ins, silk stockings, all worn, or torn, but unmistakably silk, and very fancy.

The refugee women gasped, gurgled, and rushed for the clothes. For the first time in their lives, and through the medium of war, they are wearing silk next to the skin, although cotton or wool might be better, considering winter is coming.

Egg Stamper.

A Sydney, Australia, inventor takes this idea seriously. He asked the health department to approve his "stamper," a device to be strapped behind each laying hen which would automatically stamp on each egg the date it was laid.

This would prevent storage eggs being sold as fresh, he argued.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Equally True NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Father Coughlin was correct in contending that many Jews have been vigorous Communists in Russia and elsewhere, but it would be equally true and equally unfair to the members of his own faith in the United States to point out that Fascism started in a Catholic country and that a Catholic cardinal welcomed the Nazis to Austria.

Father Coughlin said that by their failure to use the press, the radio and the banking houses, "where they stand so prominently," to fight Communism as vigorously as they fight Nazi-Fascism, the Jews invite the charge of being supporters of Communism.

If that is so, however, it must follow that American Catholics have a similar obligation to oppose Fascism and Nazism as vigorously as they fight communism. It will be conceded, I suppose, that both Communism and Nazi-Fascism are equally inimical to the American ideal and that Nazi-Fascism is more actively dangerous to this country at the moment.

Hated Not

All Political

It would be foolish to pretend that the hatred of Nazi-Fascism among Jews is purely intellectual and political. It would be hated much less if it were not anti-Semitic, and some Jews might even indorse it as a system of government. But the Jews themselves are Communists in a sense, and the Catholic opposition to Communism is largely due to religious considerations.

The Nazis persecute Jews. Therefore Jews cry "outrage!" and hate Nazism.

The Spanish Loyalists persecute Catholics. Therefore the Catholic clergy and press and many of the laymen also cry "outrage!" and hate the Loyalist side.

But it is no more true to say that all American Jews are Communists or fellow-travelers or to accuse them of tolerating Communism than it is to say that American Catholics are Nazi-Fascists or that they sympathize with Italy and Germany, which, in league with Japan, are fomenting hostility toward this country's ideals and material interests.

A Meeting

In Brooklyn

Father Coughlin will yet turn out to be the greatest aid and comfort to the recurrent anti-Catholic movement in the United States. These waves rise and fall, and when the next one sweeps along, great emphasis will be placed on reports of an open-air meeting in Brooklyn during the presidential campaign of 1936, at which Father Coughlin, of Detroit, a Catholic priest and politician, was attended by an honorarium of $10,000 and a uniformed men.

This incident will be exploited as evidence of a private militia, and although neither Catholics nor the Catholic church were at all concerned in it, by Father Coughlin's own method of argument in holding all Jews accountable for the activities of some Jews, the armed guard episode will be fair material. It needn't even be true, because Father Coughlin himself has established precedent for the use of unverified but sensational material.

I doubt, also, that the Brooklyn Tablet, a Catholic publication, would be willing to accept in that case a condition which it laid down last week in discussing Father Coughlin's latest controversy. "He said openly what millions are saying in their ordinary conversation at home and on the streets," the Tablet said.

Nevertheless,

That Probably is

A Canard

True, but there have been times when millions of people in this country said, in their ordinary conversations at home and on the streets, many vicious and utterly false things about Catholics and Catholics and a time may come when they will say them again. And right now, if some anti-Catholic orator were to take the air as prominently as Father Coughlin did and accuse all the Catholics of the United States of being Nazi-Fascists or that they sympathize with Hitler, of plotting to deliver this country to the pope, Mussolini or Hitler, the Brooklyn Tablet would be less tolerant of the open declaration of every canard currently on the lips of many individuals. The Tablet is not famous for its tolerance.

By Father Coughlin's own argument it would be fair and just to hold that Catholics exert a corrupting influence in American politics because Tammany Hall and the New York City Hall were dominated by Catholic politicians in days of atrocious corruption and because the same phenomenon has occurred in Jersey City and Kansas City—a fact, which, incidentally, has been discussed by millions in their ordinary conversations at home and on the streets.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

"THE DIMPLE OF THE UNIVERSE" Jo Frank Porter, farmer-organization official, spoke in Atlanta at the Southern Industrial Council.

Jo Frank Porter is from Columbia, Tenn., "The Dimple of the Universe." No chamber of commerce named it so. The late John Trotwood Moore gave it that name. He was a poet, philosopher, novelist and gentleman. He wrote a poem, "Only the Gamefish Swims Upstream," which attained some circulation. Grantland Rice took the catch line and wrote about it a poem of his own, which became famous as one of the great songs of sport—"Only the Game Fish Swims Upstream."

"Pop" Geers, the great driver of trotting horses, was from that section. Some of the best saddle and show horses in the ring today come from "The Dimple of the Universe." It's a country of rolling hills and fields and has a tradition. It may have lost it in the growth of industry in that section but I imagine they retain part of it.

Jo Frank Porter is of the old tradition and yet he has absorbed some of the new.

"PARITY OF FARM PRICES" "To survive," he said, "we must have a parity of farm prices, and the method we now see for obtaining parity is through the administration of this act. The question is, is it better for the government, representing all the people, to pay a subsidy to farmers in order to give them stabilized income, or let them foolishly bankrupt themselves and the nation through overproduction?"

The Tennessean went on to say that no businessman in his right mind would criticize the Agricultural Adjustment Act, nor the soil conservation legislation designed to save the farmer from financial ruin and the dissolution of his soil. He disagreed entirely that present prices are the result of the act.

"Unlimited production," he said, "will result in low prices and ruin. The AAA didn't ruin the export market. We lost that market when cotton was five cents a pound."

"The farmers probably should do the things the government is doing, but they can't do it alone. Subsidies are bad, but how can we do without them?"

"I don't see how a manufacturer who benefits from the tariff can keep a straight face when he criticizes the processing tax and the AAA."

"With foolish action by the farmers we could again have the distressing conditions of 1932, and we could have them in two years."

He was an important speaker. He is a director of the Federal Reserve Bank, an officer of the Tennessee Taxpayers' League, chairman of the Rural Electrification Authority and a citizen with no ax to grind in any statement about farming.

He meant, when he spoke of "foolish action" by farmers, failure to support the quotas on cotton and tobacco in the December 10 elections.

A SPLENDID COUNCIL

It ought to be remembered that Jo Frank Porter was speaking at a meeting of Southern Industrialists and they were, almost to a man, anti-New Deal.

Yet, without exception, the council was better balanced, more reasonable, more tolerant than any of its critics expected it to be. It deserves a sincere tribute as having done an important piece of work.

Twenty years ago this council of conservative men would have been damned as a radical convention. All of which ought to demonstrate that progress is being made; that progress will continue to be made, and that more can be accomplished by education and reasonable attitudes than by force or by unreasonable actions.

This council heard advanced by its own speakers, eradication of cheap and docile labor from industry and the development of mutual confidence between employer and employee; a correlation of industry and education; co-operation in the enforcement of the wages and hours bill, co-ordination of all forms of transportation under a central board to eliminate discrimination.

The council went on record against government spending and interference in business. But the fact remains it was a well-ordered council, tolerant and reasonable. Not even the New Dealers could claim it to have been reactionary. Southern Industrial leaders showed more balance and good sense than have those of the east in their councils.

ARKWRIGHT SCORES ECONOMIC SURVEY

N. E. C. Report Termed 'Erroneous and Prejudicial to the South.'

WEST POINT, Ga., Nov. 30.—Preston Arkwright, of Atlanta, told the West Point Lions Club Wednesday that the National Emergency Council's report to the President on economic conditions in the south was political and not economic, that its purpose was political, and that the report is essentially erroneous and prejudicial to the south.

"To change the existing order, the first thing necessary to be done is to create a grievance against the existing order," he said. "The report charges that the greatest handicap the south suffers from is that its industries, to a large extent, represent capital from outside the state into the state. It states that excessive sales taxes have piled a burden upon those least able to bear it. It protests against the poll tax as being unjust in that it prevents those being imposed upon most from doing anything to defend themselves."

Mr. Arkwright said there is a scheme on foot to abolish the poll tax, to do away with the White Democratic primaries to give the negro full rights with the whites, to confer the ballot on anyone who wishes it, to do away with the county unit system, giving the cities full control of the state, and to remove restrictions on debt making by the state.

"Georgia's present bonded indebtedness," he said, "is only $4,000,000. It would probably be $4,000,000,000 if the state constitution did not restrict debt making. What industry would want to locate in our state with such an indebtedness as that? Not once has the government suggested a solution to the south's problem by encouraging industrial development. The only way out is for us to do the best we can ourselves, and then advise our state and its resources so that capital will come into it and give us the needed support for a balanced program so that we can make the most of being fundamentally a rural, agricultural territory."

More than 125 Atlanta businessmen were entertained at a luncheon in the Chevrolet plant yesterday before going on an industrial tour of the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants and the Gaylor Container Corporation. Front row, left to right, are Ivan Allen; L. S. Costley, regional sales manager of Chevrolet; C. F.

125 Atlantans View Processes In Manufacture of Cars and Boxes

Chevrolet and Fisher Body Plants and Gaylor Container Corporation Inspected by Businessmen on Tour Sponsored by Chamber of Commerce.

The magic of the machine held a strange fascination for more than 125 Atlanta businessmen yesterday as they went behind the scenes of the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants and the Gaylor Container Corporation to study the making of automobiles and of corrugated boxes.

With the same eagerness that a youngster tears apart his favorite toy to see what makes it run, the businessmen watched the more than 5,000 single operations involved in the assembly of an automobile. Later they viewed the intricate processes used in the making of boxes.

Third in Series.
The industrial tour was the third in a series sponsored by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and designed to acquaint Atlanta businessmen with their home industries.

Before beginning their tour, the visitors were entertained at a special luncheon in the cafeteria of the Chevrolet plant. Then they were divided into several groups and escorted through the plant by guides.

They studied the assembly of an automobile from start to finish. As they entered the huge assembly room they saw stacks of steel parts. Gradually they watched these parts take their place as a car took shape—the hulk of the body traveling along on an endless track and passing hundreds of skilled workmen, each of whom added something to the completed product.

Sparks flew and machinery hummed as the embryo automobile grew into a full-sized mechanism. And always it kept moving slowly along the track. The laborers worked quickly to get their part of the job completed before the car passed on to someone else. "Example of Co-operation," a wonderful example of co-operation, the businessmen remarked to each other as they roamed on through the plant. After the body had been assembled, it passed on to other workmen, who fitted it on a chassis, installed a motor, equipped it with fenders, gas tank and a radiator. Finally, after more than an hour and a half, the businessmen reached the end and saw the shiny new cars that will be delivered to Mr. and Mrs. America. The jig-saw puzzle had been completed.

During the 10-year period from 1928 to 1938, inclusive, 527,779 units have been turned out at the plant, the businessmen learned from L. M. Costley, regional manager. This is a yearly average production of 52,779. The highest year's production was in 1935 when 68,261 units were produced.

The total pay roll of the plant, which occupies 32 acres of land, was $19,118,207 from 1928 to 1938, inclusive. This is an average of $1,911,820 per year. The average yearly employment for the past 10 years is 1,345, all of whom are local men and women.

During the 10-year period the Atlanta plant has paid out to railroads a total of $32,778,099 on outgoing and incoming freight, Costley revealed. This would be an average of $3,277,809 per year.

After completing the tour of the Chevrolet plant, the party traveled to the Gaylor Corporation. There they learned from H. W. Beck Jr., manager, and C. F. Gibbons, superintendent, how yellow pine is turned into corrugated boxes. The plant uses 2,000 tons of paper per month and turns out from eight to 10 carloads of boxes per day.

Shortly before dusk the businessmen boarded their special buses and traveled back to town, assured that Atlanta is forging ahead in the industrial world.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"Time—marches on!"

"I can fully agree with you that the New Deal has many good deeds to its credit," writes Ralph B. Miller, of Shiloh, Fla., "but I fail to understand why you think it should quit at this point. Surely there is much more to be done to help the underprivileged one-third of our country." Well, it seems to us that much of the more is in process and will go forward, and that the remainder will have to wait while the country makes sure of its political democracy, economic prosperity, and general efficiency. It is dangerous to extend your lines too far without checking up on your numbers, objectives, reinforcements and base of supplies.

This side of judgment day there will be wrongs for righting, institutions for reforming, poverties for helping. Sometimes the going will be very fast. Sometimes it will need to slow up, see where it's at, make sure of what it has got. The New Deal is dealt. For better or worse there isn't going to be any more now. Or rather, there isn't unless the news of completion encourages overmuch those utterly blind, bitter and naive reactionaries whom this country, having repudiated once, will not hesitate to repudiate again. Most Americans today, it seems to us, are in a state of suspension between extremists of both sides. Every time they take a good look at one extreme it tends to swing them in disgust to the other. The best advice is to avoid situations in which you have to observe how reactionaries talk and act if you do not wish to be turned radical and vice-versa.

For improved race relations in the south, it seems to us, all parties must realize that more than race is involved. No society nor any individual can be expected to trust an ignorant man as much as an educated man, a domestic employee as much as the head of a firm, a ditch digger as much as an architect, a dumbbell as much as a college professor. We ought to be able to agree, both the white leaders and the negro ones among us, that there is no point in treating those whose lot needs improving as if they enjoyed already and had benefit of an improved lot.

"In the international chorus to—"

GOOD MORNING By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

GOD'S WAY IS BEST.
Mrs. John R. Dickey sent me the following poem the other day, which I pass on to those who gratefully acknowledge God's way as always best. The poem was written by John Parker.

God holds the key of all unknowns,
And I am glad
If other hands should hold the key,
Or if He trusted it to me,
I might be sad.
What if tomorrow's cares were here,
Without its rest?
I'd rather He unlock the door,
And as the hours swing open, say,
"Thy will is best."

I cannot read His future plans,
But this I know,
I have the smiling of His face,
And all the refuge of His grace,

For those who have burdens—and where is there one to be found without some burden—these lines will bring renewed strength and assurance. We are often tempted to pry into the future and see what is ahead for us, but it is far better that we do not know. "One step enough for me," provided we are walking with Him. "Give us this day our daily bread" is the way Jesus has taught us to pray. He promises to supply our every need according to the riches of His grace. Therefore, let us wait upon the Lord, knowing that "all things work together for good to those who love God, to those who are the called according to His purposes."

FOREST PRODUCTS BRING 263 MILLION

Total Exports and Imports List Southern Pine as Leading Item.

Total imports and exports of forest products, the south's increasingly important industry, amounted to $268,195,363 for the first 10 months of 1938, W. H. Schroder, district manager of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, said yesterday.

Schroder pointed out that the figures were for the United States as a whole, and a breakdown for Georgia and the southern states was not immediately available. Exports accounted for 29 per cent of the total, and imports the remainder, with the largest single item being the import of newsprint, largely Canadian.

Forest products exports reached a total value of $75,290,940. The largest single item was boards, planks and scantlings of rough southern pine, valued at $6,134,162. Other major items in order were oak boards, planks and scantlings, bleached sulphite wood pulp, rough Douglas fir boards, planks and scantlings and sawed southern pine.

Exports of both lumber and pulp and paper increased October over September, with a total combined October value of $7,462,507.

HARPISIT TO PLAY WITH EMORY GROUP

Willie Lewis Coffey To Be Presented Sunday.

With Willie Lewis Coffey, noted harpist, as soloist, the Emory Little Symphony Orchestra will open its 17th season with a concert at Glenn Memorial church at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Under the direction of Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey, the orchestra will build its program around the Egmont overture by Beethoven.

Harpist Coffey has played with symphony orchestras in St. Louis and Chicago. She will play with the Little Symphony and also do several solos. John Bumstead, tenor soloist, will sing an aria, "Una Furtiva Lagrima," from Danizetti's "Elixir of Love."

COUNTY RECEIVES NEW FIRE STATION

$16,250 Establishment Will Cut Insurance Rates in Lakewood Area.

Fire protection for an extensive region in the Lakewood section was a step nearer yesterday when the new $16,250 fire station on Lakewood avenue near McDonough road was turned over to Fulton county in a brief ceremony.

The station will be opened about January 1, under present plans, augmenting security and causing a general reduction in insurance rates in the area. Fulton county turned the station over to the city immediately after accepting it. WPA, county and city officials participated in the ceremony.

Like all other county fire stations outside the city limits, the Lakewood addition will be maintained and manned by the county under supervision of the Atlanta fire department.

Another station built by WPA in Center Hill is nearing completion and will be opened at the same time.

Real Glamour Girl No 'Dead Pan,' Top-Notch Photographer Opines

Hedy Lamarr Leads Toni Frissell's List of Fascinating Females.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(UP)—Toni Frissell, the top-notch socialite photographer, shed a crocodile tear today for those photogenic society girls whose dead pans constantly appear in the nation's publications and reported that real glamour gals were glamorous mentally as well as physically.

She named this year's No. 1 deb and several of last year's crop as examples of dead-pan beauty, which she dislikes. "I would rather photograph someone who is beautiful one moment and ugly the next," she said. "They are really glamorous. No let's call them fascinating, glamour is one word that has lost real meaning."

"A real glamour girl must be glamorous in the mind as well as in the face," Miss Frissell continued. "And you can't say that for those debs who are always photographed in night clubs. I can't see where they have any hope for a happy future."

To prove her point she named the 10 most glamour—oops, sorry—fascinating women in America. "They have everything," she said. Leading the list of "Frissell's fascinating females" is Hedy Lamarr, the actress. The others:

1. Paulette Goddard, also of the movies.
2. Vera Zorina, dancing star of "I Married an Angel."
3. Julie Haydon, dramatic actress.
4. Michael Strange, writer.
5. Millicent Rogers Balcom, Standard Oil heiress.
6. Mrs. Horatio Shonard, cartoonist Fontaine Fox's daughter.
7. Mrs. William Wetmore.
8. Mrs. George Richmond Fearling.
9. Mrs. Bradford Trafford.

ELKS WILL HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICE

Atlanta Lodge To Honor Those Members Who Died in Last Year.

The annual memorial services honoring members of the Atlanta lodge of Elks who have died during the last year, will be held at 8 o'clock Sunday night at the lodge, 736 Peachtree street. John M. Slaton will deliver the oration.

At the same time a large memorial tablet bearing the names of more than 600 Elks who have died since the lodge was installed years ago, and covering one complete side of the lower floor of the home, will be unveiled by John S. McClelland, chairman of the board of grand trustees, who will deliver a brief address.

A special musical program has been arranged with Mrs. Rose Barone and Ed Armstrong as soloists, with appropriate selections on a large electric pipe organ, installed for the occasion, by Mrs. Victor B. Clark, organist at the Peachtree Christian church.

Exalted Ruler Frank Fling and other officers of the lodge will perform the ritual for the memorial exercises. The committee in charge of arrangements is L. S. Moss, chairman; Turner Pitten, John S. McClelland, Luther Call and Frank Robertson. All Elks and their friends are invited.

Members of the lodge who have died within the past year, and to be honored on Sunday night, are: C. P. Bentley, John A. Scharf, N. R. Glenn, Alexander S. Taylor, Robert C. Alston, William F. Hancock, Leon C. Greer, C. C. Shipley, Daniel Percy, A. O. Patterson, Thomas J. Peeples, Roy F. Druschky, John Kelley, Frank R. Speer, Philip Neimark, Burton Clarke, Adolf Montag, Charles Herbert Moore, Dr. Everett E. Clark, Patrick McHugh, Robert George Anderson.

Arnold Lunn, English Writer, To Speak Here on Tactics of Reds

Studied Communism in Germany and Recently Returned From Spain.

Arnold Lunn, noted English lecturer and writer, will speak Monday night, December 12, at the Biltmore hotel, on "World Revolution, a Study in Communist Tactics."

A brilliant commentator on world affairs, Lunn has made an exhaustive study of Communism in many countries. He visited Germany in 1919, during the first civil war, and spent six weeks in Spain recently. Lunn lives for several months each year in different European nations and is an authoritative interpreter of political conditions.

He was born in 1888 in Madras, India, the son of Sir Henry Lunn, M. D., and of Lady Lunn. His mother was the daughter of the late Canon Moore, headmaster of Middleton College, near Cork. At the time of his birth, his father was serving as a Methodist missionary in the east.

Lunn later studied at Harrow, and at Balliol College, Oxford, where he gave evidence of brilliance in the fields that interested him. At Oxford, he was editor of the Isis, the undergraduate's weekly, and secretary of the Oxford Union, regarded as the nursery of English statesmen.

He is married to Lady Mabel Northcote, sister of the Earl of Idlesleigh, and their eldest son, Peter, recently captained the British Olympic ski team.

Lunn has popularized a form of controversy which consists in the exchange of letters between champions of different views. He is the author of a number of well-known books, among which are "Spanish Rehearsal," chosen as a book of the month by the National Book Association of England, and of "Science and the Supernatural," John Wesley, chosen as the religious book of the month by the English Protestant Book Club. His new volume, the "Science of World Revolution," will be released this month.

Lunn made his first lecture tour of the United States in 1935. A recent convert to the Catholic church, he has been professor of apologetics at Notre Dame for the autumn semester since 1936. Among his other published works are the "Harrovians," "Family Name," "Now I See," "A Saint in the Slave Trade," and "Within That City."

Court Upholds Sunday Movies In Hogansville

An effort to halt Sunday motion pictures in Hogansville, Ga., was defeated in the state supreme court yesterday.

By a divided opinion, the court upheld Troup county superior court's refusal to grant an injunction against the Lam Amusement Company.

A group of Hogansville citizens sought the injunction to prevent the company from operating its Royal theater there on Sunday. Solicitor General W. Y. Atkinson excepted the superior court ruling and appealed to the supreme court.

The defendant pointed out in the lower court that Hogansville had voted for Sunday movies for charitable purposes and asserted the Royal theater showings were for charity.

U. S. PUSHES PLANS FOR HUGE GARAGE

High Officials Arrive Here To Study Sites.

Plans to erect a $285,000 government garage in Atlanta moved forward yesterday with the arrival of A. G. Biedenweg, superintendent of Postal Motor Vehicle Service, and W. P. Krumble, site agent of the Treasury Department, both of Washington.

No site has been selected. Krumble said, although 23 offers have been received. He and Biedenweg will be in Room 108, New Post Office building, indefinitely to interview prospective sellers.

Postal trucks are now housed in rented quarters on Forsyth street.

Take Calotabs to Help Nature Throw off Colds

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleaning the intestinal tract of any virus-laden mucus and toxins. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which may be needed in the treatment of colds. Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package.—(adv.)

Duo of Popular Atlanta Sub-Debs Observes the Same Birthday

Dorothy Grove and Anne Owens Plan Double Celebration of Event

By Sally Forth.

YESTERDAY was Dorothy Grove's and Anne Owens' birthday. Though there's one year's difference in their ages, they are such good friends that they always consider each other in their plans for a celebration of the auspicious occasion. Last year Anne gave her party on the 30th, so this year it was Dorothy's turn to claim the date for her party.

The affair took the form of a luncheon at the Driving Club, which assembled 20 of her friends at the Driving Club, and afterwards the party attended the showing of "The Moonlight Sonata" at the Erlanger theater. Luncheon was served buffet style in a private dining room of the club, with a huge birthday cake bearing 15 candles as a central decoration of the beautifully appointed table. Slender crystal vases graced either end of the table.

Mrs. Lon Grove assisted her young daughter in receiving her guests, who included Anne Owens, Frances Grove, Tatty Shipp, Elizabeth Jones, Jessie Strickland, Jane Ward, Martha Cronheim, Cortez Coolidge, Harriet Smith, Caroline Smith, Laleah Sullivan, Addalee McDougal, Joy Rutland, Sally Pat Connolly, Mary Sutherland, Ralford Ragsdale, Jane Haley, Harriet McKenna, Anne Hoyt, Mary Campbell Everett and Betty Brown.

Anne's part of the double celebration will be a buffet supper to be given on Friday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Owens, on Pace's Ferry road. Her guests will include 20 of her young friends, and after supper they will attend a movie. Anne's birthday cake will have 14 candles. Both she and Dorothy are popular members of the freshman class of Washington Seminary.

YOUTHFUL Atlantans sat on the jury last evening as one of their members was brought to trial for violation of the state's hunting law. The dignified robes of the judiciary were turned into clown suits for the affair when Gene Gunby's legal mind inspired the mock trial of young Travis Hill.

When Gene plans a party it is destined for success and last evening's affair was no exception. The novel event was given at the host's shack on the banks of the Chattahoochee river. Travis, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hill, was charged with "violating the hunting laws in south Georgia." George Bland and Ivan Allen testified against the defendant, while Trammell Scott, as "game warden," brought charges against the youthful defendant for hunting on private property and served him papers to that effect. "Judge" Robert W. Crenshaw, Thurston Hatcher Studio Photo.

Mrs. John F. Newlan Jr., of Miami, Fla., is the former Miss Dorothy Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Davis, of Fitzgerald, whose marriage was an interesting event taking place yesterday at noon in the study of the Druid Hills Presbyterian church with the pastor, Dr. W. M. Elliott, officiating. The couple were unattended, and the bride wore a becoming model of blue crepe with silver matching accessories. Her flowers were orchids. The couple left after the ceremony for their wedding trip.

of the "Cherokee Court," was in the chair and heard charges made against the youthful lawbreaker. Travis, however, was in the hands of friends, for sitting on the jury were a number of his pals, including Buck Palmer, Clark Howell Jr., Ewing Dean Jr., Hampton Hume, DeSales Harrison Jr., Frank Gay, Justis Martin and Stuart Broeman Jr. They returned a verdict of "guilty" against their friend with recommendation that the defendant be sentenced to "many happy returns of the day." For yesterday was Travis' birthday and the trial was in reality his birthday party!

There was more to the party than just the trial, for the host provided a program not only to carry out the court trial atmosphere, but also the hunting motif. Taking part in the entertainment were Forrest Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Paris Lee and Vera Frances Pruet.

THE LAURELS of success have been placed upon the head of Connie Frost, Atlanta poet, in the announcement that her book, "As I See It," is in its second printing. The next edition of the book is due off the press on December 10. The book outlines in charming style brief bits of everyday psychology. A description of these essays is summed up in the statement made by Dr. W. F. Melton, who said, "These essays are literary cameos or little mirrors in which we may see ourselves."

The author is now working on another book to be titled, "So It Seems," which will be along the same thought as her first book. Connie Frost is also represented in an Anthology of Verse called "Star Dust and Dreams."

Mr. and Mrs. Davis Give Rehearsal Party

Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Davis entertained last evening at Brookhaven, the Capital City Club, for their sister, Miss Martha Burnett and Rufus Carswell Jr., whose marriage takes place this evening. The table was centered with an artistic arrangement of pink chrysanthemums flanked by candelabra containing tall white tapers.

Present, in addition to the hosts and honor guests, were Mrs. Gordon Burnett, mother of the bride-elect; Misses Catherine Gray, Ethel Erwin, Anne Irby, Mrs. Stratton Foster, of Nashville, Tenn.; Miss Frances Lyle, of Montgomery, Ala.; Miss Betty Long, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Miss Elizabeth Odell of Concord, N. C.; Miss Caroline Dalton, of High Point, N. C.; Tom Sims, Jim Williams, Dr. Hugh Hailey, Dr. Bernard Wolff, John McGaughey, Mr. and Mrs. Whitney Colburn, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; G. B. Ramsey, John K. Ottley, A. D. Adair, James H. Whitten, John Sanford, Fred Stone, Charles Elyea, Dr. and Mrs. H. J. Savage, George McCarty, Edward Armfield, of Asheville, N. C., and Mrs. E. A. Forshey, of Vicksburg, Miss.

Miss Burnett was complimented yesterday at the luncheon given by Miss Anne Irby at her home on Brookhaven drive. Assisting in entertaining was Mrs. A. F. Irby.

Present were Misses Burnett, Irby, Catherine Gray, Ethel Erwin, Frances Lyle, of Montgomery, Ala.; Betty Long, of Chattanooga; Elizabeth Odell, of Concord, N. C.; Caroline Dalton, of High Point, N. C.; Beverly Bailey and Mesdames Frank T. Davis and M. Stratton Foster, of Nashville.

Miss Eloise Gresham And Stuart Witham Feted at Parties

Stuart Witham Jr., whose marriage to Miss Eloise Gresham will be an important social event of December 6, will be honored tomorrow evening at a stag party at the Henry Grady Hotel.

Hosts will be groomsmen in the Gresham-Witham wedding party including Calhoun Witham, brother of the groom-elect; Charles Shropshire, Nick Nicolson, George McCarty Jr., John Raine, Walter Roper, Mitchell King Jr., Alfred Kennedy Jr., Harrell M. Fincher of Miami, and others.

The same evening, Mrs. Henry Hirsch will entertain for Miss Gresham and the feminine members of the wedding party at her home on Habersham road.

Mrs. James M. Oliver entertained yesterday at a luncheon at the Piedmont Driving Club complimenting Miss Gresham.

The luncheon table was centered with a silver bowl filled with colorful autumn flowers.

Present were Misses Gresham, Catherine Gray, Nelle Freeman, Claire Hunnicutt, Sarah Jenkins, Ann Hurt, of Miami; Mesdames Oliver, James Shepherd, Robert P. Ludwig, of Miami; Randolph A. Hearst and James H. Whitten Jr.

Society Events

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1. The marriage of Miss Martha Louise Burnett and Rufus Hutchinson Carswell takes place at 8:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church to be followed by a reception to be given by Mrs. Gordon Burnett, the bride-elect's mother, at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Mrs. Robert Hodgson and Mrs. Roy Booker give a luncheon at the Capital City Club for Miss Eloise Gresham, bride-elect.

Miss Shumaker and Mr. Garrett Announce Wedding Plans Today

Of interest to a wide circle of friends throughout the south is the announcement made today of the wedding plans of Miss Constance Shumaker, and Sims Garrett Jr., of Washington, D. C., whose betrothal was announced last Sunday.

The marriage will be an event of December 20 at the Emory Theology chapel with Dr. W. A. Smart officiating at the ceremony.

Miss Shumaker has chosen Miss Harriett Coley, of Daytona Beach, Fla., for her maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Mrs. Joe Carter Burgin, of Culbert, Ga.; Misses Alyce Powell and Helen Powell, of Washington, D. C., and Miss Margaret Johnson, of this city.

Mr. Garrett has selected Honorable Stephen Pace, of Americus, as his best man, and ushers will include Clark Duncan, of Buena Vista, Matthew Williams, of Buena Vista; Robert Cochran, of Rupert, Ga., and Henry L. Bowden, of this city.

George Munn, uncle of the bride-elect, will give his niece in marriage.

Following the ceremony Mrs.

Shumaker will entertain at a small reception at her home on Cameron Court for members of the bridal party, out-of-town guests, and members of the immediate families.

Many prenuptial parties have been planned for the betrothed couple, among the first to be the breakfast luncheon at which Mrs. George C. Munn entertains for the bride-elect on Monday. Twenty friends of the honoree will be invited for the occasion.

Miss Mary Will Crockett has chosen December 10 for the luncheon at which she will compliment Miss Shumaker. On the same afternoon Miss Marjorie Johnson will fete Miss Shumaker at a tea to which 40 friends of the bride-elect will be invited.

Others who will honor the bridal couple will be Misses Jane Blick, Mabel Wood and Mesdames Edgar Johnson Jr., Thomas L. Camp, Ray Neville, C. F. Holt, Joseph Regenstein Jr., Charles Hosland and Joe Carter Burgin.

The dates for these parties and additional parties to honor the bride-elect and her fiancé will be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal To Fete Kappa Sigma Fraternity Leaders

Among interesting affairs planned for next week is the reception to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Neal on Wednesday at their home on West Pace's Ferry road.

The affair will honor national officers of the Kappa Sigma fraternity who will be in the city to attend business sessions of the organization to be held here next week. The meeting here of the fraternity leaders is the first ever to be in Atlanta, and the leaders are outstanding businessmen from throughout the nation and represent one of the oldest fraternities in the country.

Sharing honors will be Allan G. Ritter, and Wesley W. Kergan, of Los Angeles, Cal.; Hamilton Baker, of Boston, Mass.; Beaufort Jester, of Corsicana, Texas, and George Rea, of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi.

Mr. Neal, the host, is district grand master of the fraternity and is an alumnus of the University of Georgia, where he was a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Mrs. Poole Hostess To Press Club

Mrs. Mercer Poole was hostess to the members of the Atlanta Woman's Press Club at the cocktail hour yesterday at her home on West Wesley road.

Mrs. Poole's home was beautifully decorated for the occasion with quantities of deep red and yellow chrysanthemums. The table in the dining room was centered with an arrangement of brilliantly tinted fruits which repeated the autumn shades of yellow and red. Large red apples served as holders for the red tapers which were other pretty details of the decorative scheme.

Twenty-five members of the Press Club assembled for the party. Mrs. Poole was assisted in entertaining by her lovely young daughter, Miss Margaret Peavy.

For a turkey dinner to be held Friday evening in the church recreation hall from 5:30 through 9:30 o'clock.

Turkey Dinner. Wesley Fellowship Class of Calvary Methodist church will sponsor.

Solomon Was First To Put Happy Marriage Responsibility on Wife

Singer Who Can't Walk Stresses Value of Exercise

By Ida Jean Kain.

Sometimes we don't expect enough of ourselves. And sometimes we can be ashamed into doing the things we usually try to find excuses for not doing. . . little but important things like exercising to keep fit and keep a trim figure. That is the reason I want to tell you about Connie Boswell.

You have heard Connie Boswell's voice on her records and over the radio and you have seen her on the screen. I saw her wheeled on to the stage of a Broadway theater and assisted to a high stool where she perched, singing as gaily and looking as lovely as any girl who can walk alone.

That made such an impression on me that I felt you would want to hear more about this young star who, in addition to her talent as an entertainer, has the faculty of making us pull ourselves up short for a closer look at our own lives. So I went backstage and asked Miss Boswell many things.

How did it happen that she is a cripple? A fall when she was a baby. How does she manage to keep such a good figure when she can't even walk without assistance? Exercise. And you would be surprised the amount of exercise she takes! If Miss Boswell had her way and didn't have quite a few other things to do, she would ride horseback for hours every day. As it is, she walks several times a week and usually for an hour or two at a time.

Then, she has a stationary bicycle which is carted around from New York to California and she rides that twice a day, morning and night. She has an occasional workout on a rowing machine and does bending exercises regularly for the waistline, sitting on the floor and bending over to touch her hands to her toes, then stretching her hands high overhead and bending down again.

Exercise is harder for Connie Boswell than for the average person and still she gets a kick out of it. Even if it were not so much fun, however, she would follow a definite exercise program because of her voice. A certain amount of exercise is essential to health, and good health is always essential to a lovely voice.

Before we get on the subject of diet, there is one other thing that Connie Boswell does and I think we could all take it as a beauty tip. She refuses to worry. "Worry doesn't get you a thing but wrinkles," Miss Boswell said. "I never let myself worry all the time, it would show in my voice, but, anyway, I've decided that most of our worries are about things that never happen."

This star of radio, screen and stage admits that she can eat four meals a day without gaining any weight, but you can understand how she can do this when you know the long hours she works. In making pictures, she has been known to start working at 8 o'clock one morning and keep it up until 2 the next morning. Making a record sometimes takes hours. Personal appearances sometimes mean five shows a day. And, aside from all this, Miss Boswell does her own arrangements for her songs.

Long working hours, however, are not the whole story. She does not fuss much about her diet, but she happens to like the right foods. She eats so much spinach that her friends call her "Poppye".

Rogers, Astaire Make New Picture

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 30.—"The Castles." Ginger Rogers wears a cheap purple harlequin costume—also a large black beauty-spot on each cheek. "But this is nothing," she giggles. "Wait till you see my 1911 swim suit—that's something I'm going to preserve for my grandchildren." Ginger, portraying the budding Irene Castle, has just finished dancing for Fred Astaire, the man she is going to marry. Fred has just finished rescuing Ginger's dog from the water—but that won't be photographed until the end of the picture—just in case he catches cold. But anyway, Fred wears a thick bathrobe and holds the dog on his lap.

Janet Beecher, who plays Irene Castle's mother, wears a cute yellow wig—as a change from her own white locks—and tells me, "My part is good—what there is of it." "Good scene, isn't it?" says Director Hank Potter enthusiastically, as Ginger forces the unwilling Astaire to witness an encore to her pretty terrible dance. Ginger smokes between takes—a thing no nice girl of 1911 did, I'm sure. . . . I ask Astaire when he expects to leave that world cruised. "Not till after the Santa Anita race season—it will be the first time I can really see the horses win—I hope." Fred will also spend three months in England. "But when are you coming back?" I ask. "This year, next year—I guess—I don't know," he grins.

"Dark Victory." . . . "Dye mind doing it once more?" says the politer director in Hollywood—Edmund Goulding. "No, darling," replies the nicest star in Hollywood—Bette Davis. She has a siege of coughing and I think it is a rehearsal for her final death scene. "No, it's my very own cold," Bette says between coughs. "It didn't get any better at home, so I thought I might as well be working."

Apart from the sniffles, Bette is glowing with something that looks suspiciously like happiness. As this is the week of her husband's divorce action, it would seem that Bette is getting what she wants—or she is even a better actress than I think she is. We talk about the "dream house" Bette plans on building. "Yes, I finally broke down and admitted to myself that maybe I'll be living in California for a few years, but I still can't bear to think of the responsibility of possessions." . . . She strokes two of the more important members of the cast—black-and-white English setters, belonging to her sister, Barbara. To make sure that the dogs will behave, Barbara plays the part of a maid. Nice work—if you get paid for it.

"Cafe Society." . . . The "Come-as-you-are—when you are invited" party has been going on for two weeks—an idea and a feat that must make Elsa Maxwell burn with jealousy. . . . Madeleine Carroll was in her petticoat when she was invited—and what a petticoat!—"I'll swap two evening dresses for it." . . . One of the guests was driving a car—so he brings his steering wheel. . . . One was playing polo, so he brings his horse. And, of course, several beautiful maidens were in their

The Ideal Wife, According To Solomon

By Caroline Chatfield

In these times there's no dirth of information, education, advice, counsel and guidance to the young people on the subject of happy marriage. While nothing has been added to the wisdom of Solomon, the wisdom is being served up in pill doses for subway readers; in dessert dishes for the leisure ladies that can linger over their printed pages; also it is being spoon-fed to college students out of textbooks in lecture classes.

The modern wife can't excuse herself for a washed-up marriage on the ground that she was ignorant of men and wedding, nor on the ground that nobody told her what to expect and how to behave when she didn't get it. Everybody is telling her. While in older days she had to read her Bible and sit in the pew for the preacher to expound it, in order to know what was required of the good wife, she can now pick up the morning paper and while she's drinking her coffee read the review of the latest book which describes "Twelve Ways to a Happy Marriage."

Solomon said it first when he put the responsibility for a happy marriage largely on the wife and remarked that a husband who picked a good one wouldn't take a million for her, though he measured the price in terms of rubies rather than in dollars. And he told us what a good one was, too; describing her as being well groomed and well dressed, a fine housekeeper; a hard worker, practical, economical, provident and charitable—a woman to be proud of.

While his picture of the ideal wife was distinctly on the distaff side he evidently approved of her turning an honest penny and making investments separate from her husband's with the pin money. He suggested that real estate was a safe investment and thought when she'd bought the lot she should raise some foodstuffs—fruit, perhaps.

Solomon set great store by the fact that the good wife would never let her husband down; never arouse his jealousy or suspicion nor tempt him to oggle other women in retaliation. He gave her points for common sense, for being a good conversationalist and entertainer saying something every time she opened her mouth yet always in a kindly spirit. More points for holding her husband with a light rein.

She was not a millstone about his neck nor a clinging vine nor heckler. She attended to her job and was perfectly willing for her husband to go out and visit with his friends. There weren't any clubs in those days so the men flocked together by the city gates to have their confabs. It was understood in the community that her husband was among those present when the roll was called.

Of course the good wife's last few days were better than the first having made a shining success of her life. Her husband adored her and the children followed suit. Why not? She'd worked hard to make her marriage a success, been a good companion to her husband, made him believe in himself, helped him to get ahead. Consequently the home life had been happy and husband and children gave her credit which is all any woman asks for when the final accounting is made.

Of Interest to Women

Q. What can be done with jelly that has failed to set?

A. If it is fairly acid and gives a good pectin test, it may be re-boiled for five to seven minutes. If, however, it seems to become more sirupy instead of jelly-like as it boils, and persists in threading from the spoon instead of sheeting off, then it needs to have acid, or pectin, or both added. When adding pectin, bring the mass to a boil and then add 1 to 4 tablespoons of pectin to each cup of juice, according to the strength of the pectin test. Add 1-2 to 1 tablespoonful of lemon juice to short cup of the mass and add sugar at the same time.

Q. Does skim milk have much food value?

A. Yes; because, although most of the fat has been removed, practically all of the protein, carbohydrate, the mineral salts and part of the vitamins are left untouched.

Have you a household problem to solve? Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, enclose a three-cent postage stamp and mail to the Woman's Editor, Washington Service Bureau, 1013 Thirteenth street, Washington, D. C. for a personal reply. Three of the most interesting answers will be printed here daily. Don't telephone; write as directed.

beds or baths—so they come in negligees or wrapped in towels—short enough to allow a lot of sex appeal.

Communist Lucius Beebe happened to be in evening clothes at the time—and he waits impatiently to play his part—that of a press agent who mentions Lucius Beebe. He has been all ready since 1:30 p. m.—it is now 4:30—and is very bored. "We can't get to you today," says the assistant director. "I am leaving for New York the day after tomorrow and nothing is going to stop me," says Lucius. This is your first acting job, isn't it? I ask my fellow scribbler. "I'm not at all sure," says Beebe.

"Unmentionables," More Personalized, Offer Solution to Holiday Gift Problem

By LILLIAN MAE.

"Unmentionables" are conversation pieces in fashion circles this season as silk lingerie is more personalized and highly styled than in past years, and offers the perfect solution to many holiday gift problems.

Breathes there a 'deb' with soul so dead" who wouldn't love a sheer black nightgown of glove silk that not only makes her feel glamorous but has the added advantage of tubing easily. These are made in a number of silhouettes and are generally flounced and trimmed with black lace. College girl and debutante will receive enthusiastically plain tailored silk satin or crepe shirtwaist gowns accented by a dainty bit of handwork such as embroidered scallops in a matching or contrasting color, if they are of beautiful quality.

The young matron or debutante will adore a silk satin and sheer gown in turn of the century manner with long sheer, full sleeves and a yoke strewn with embroidered rosebuds. Many girls would like to ask Santa for a swirling skirted silk sheer gown of the evening dress type. Adaptations of the dirndl silhouette are also favored with fullness introduced through smocking at the waistline and shoulder.

Novelties, reminiscent of another era, that are sure to be popular with the younger generation is the gay, frivolous "cancan" petticoat in a silk crepe or taffeta and cotton net pantaloons with the silk satin top which can be worn under house coats as well as with bouffant or hoop-kirted evening gowns.

Make your gift a precious one however small . . . something real for luxury is the best way to express the sincerity of your sentiments.

The youth movement is toward silk when it comes to lingerie for they have found it most practical; it washes and irons like a hanky, is the strongest textile fiber for its size, its suppleness and initable elasticity causes it to conform with every movement of the body and it has the added wearing points of not pulling at the seams or bickling at points of strain.

Brides and independent women would both welcome one of the new gowns and cap ensembles. Boudoir caps are coming in again, but how different. The 1938 versions are baby bonnets in silk and lace to match silk and lace gowns and sheer hooded silk bed capes. One smart pink silk sheer gown trimmed with black Val lace has a hair bow of the same fabric. For ladies who lounge there is a wide variety of hostess gowns and robes. Fit for a Duchess are some of the new silk sheer negligees, unbuttoned pleated and worn over contrasting silk sheer gowns. The tailored woman often prefers a stiffer fabric such as silk slipper satin or silk moire in a robe. A number of these dressing gowns are so magnificent that they can serve a double purpose.

The woman who "has everything" would welcome one of those dainty, feminine silk blanket covers in shades to match her bedroom, or perhaps, a new pleated silk petticoat for her lamp or another type silk shade.

Keep mother in mind, too, when buying Christmas lingerie. She has, no doubt, always wanted a silk nightgown and robe ensemble. Get one in one of the new vibrant colors such as purple, American Beauty or Chartreuse with lace dyed to match. A silk satin gown with a matching jacket will prove invaluable as the jacket can be slipped over the shoulders for the leisurely breakfast in bed. Make her ensemble complete by including a matching pair of silk satin boudoir slippers of a draped, open-toe type.

There is always someone on every gift list for whom you don't know what to buy. For her, silk slips and panties are a solution as you have to know is the recipient's size. Complication of fit or becomingness of silhouette are practically nil, and they are gifts that are always useful no matter how large the wardrobe.

A Masterpiece Of Deceptive Leading

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Regardless of which side of the Ohio river or Rocky mountains you spread your trumps on, you would like young Cyrus V. Kean for a bridge partner.

Cy, a quiet, soft-spoken southern chap, never ventured farther north than the end of the Peachtree street trolley line in Atlanta until he rounded out his book-learning at both Georgia Tech and Georgia University. Two years out of college, he now lives in Michigan, where he ships stoves direct-to-you.

Cy's two pet hobbies are divoting and pivoting. A four-handicap golfer, we found him, one cold, drizzly Saturday afternoon doing the next best thing . . . playing rubber bridge in the Kalamazoo Country Club lounge.

Naturally subtle and imaginative, Cy is just as keen as his name implies. That rainy afternoon we watched him slip over a thriller that might have been widely chronicled as another masterpiece of brilliant deceptive leading, had it occurred in Asbury Park around master-tournament time.

S-9 8 6 5
H-6 2
D-A 8 7 2
C-A Q 3
He chose the club queen!
Kibitzers craned their necks and beheld the following picture:

DUMMY.
C-K 10 5
DECLARER.

Underestimating the bridge personality involved, it seemed academically or theoretically reasonable for South to presume Cy was leading from the club queen-jack and something or other, and to automatically mark East holding the club ace. Declarer, proceeding on the assumption, played low from dummy, Cy's queen holding the trick.

With a hint of artistic insight, Cy logically deduced that if declarer held the club jack, he would have made it good by covering the queen with dummy's supposed ace. The fact that declarer did not cover, prompted Cy to execute his second thriller by leading his club 3.

Declarer evidently saw a ray of hope in dummy's 10 forcing East's ace to promote dummy's king. But East won with the club jack. Much to the dismay of a flabbergasted declarer, East returned a low club, Cy winning the trick with his ace. The diamond ace followed for the setting trick. "Til tomorrow. . . ."

My Day: Cafe Proprietress Recognizes First Lady

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

SARASOTA, Fla.—There is no doubt about it that at this season of the year one can make very good time on Florida roads. We left the hotel in Jacksonville a few minutes after 11 o'clock and the first part of the trip was cold and through flat, rather uninteresting country. However, just as soon as water appears on the landscape, it seems to completely change one's feeling for it gives the needed variation.

We passed a lake where trees with moss waving in the breeze, looking like old gentlemen's beards or some beautiful maiden's tresses in the long ago before she had cut off her hair, plus the dark green of the long-leaf pine made a really lovely picture. The cows wander along the road and the pigs do the same; we even saw some white goats. The most noticeable birds were the buzzards circling in the air and alighting here and there with great, graceful sweeps. We stopped at a little cafe which overlooked a blue lake circled with trees, and ate our lunch.

Inadvertently, I said something about the White House, whereupon the proprietress shook her head beamingly and said: "I thought I wasn't mistaken," and I could have bitten off my tongue. I tried to make believe I hadn't heard her, while everybody with me made fun of me and said I really grieved at not being recognized and had to do something to obtain attention.

The Jacksonville newspapers and their editors deserve my thanks, for I told them I was taking that rare thing, a pleasure trip, entirely unofficially, and was not being photographed or being interviewed for a short period. I assured them that there would be no taken and all the usual questions could be asked and answered.

I didn't tell them that the President suggested that my hopes of getting anyone in this country to consider any trip unofficially were unduly optimistic. I think he was somewhat fearful that if I was successful, I might find it pleasant to return to Washington via the longest route, taking in Havana and Canada on the way.

We found my aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. David Grey, waiting for us when we arrived a little before 6 o'clock. They both said exactly what one always expects people to say who live in a land which makes a virtue of its climate: "This is most unusual weather, we are sure it will be warm before you leave."

Well, there is a polar bear rug on my dressing room floor and some of us would gladly have slept under it last night, but the sun is out this morning. We have all had walks along one of the most beautiful beaches I have ever seen beside an ocean. Nowhere is the sand whiter nor the beach nicer to walk on. Now we are sitting in the sun enjoying perfect quiet and almost forgetting that it may be cold again.

"Murmur" of Heart May Be Warning Sign of Endocarditis

By Dr. William Brady.

The popular notion of "rheumatism of the heart" is a vague one of some dreadful pain around the heart. In fact when damage to the heart occurs as a complication or result of acute infectious arthritis ("inflammatory rheumatism," or "rheumatic fever") no pain or other distress marks the occurrence. Indeed, unless the physician is alert, the heart daily in the course of the illness even he may not be aware that endocarditis has developed, until weeks or months later, when the circulatory deficiency due to valvular damage becomes manifest.

What happens is that some of the bacteria responsible for the arthritis, or perhaps only tonsillitis, or scarlet fever, or chorea (St. Vitus' dance) or septic sore throat, lodge upon the lining of the heart and set up some inflammation there. If this happens to be an area of the heart lining covering a heart valve, the exudate or "vegetations" associated with the inflammation, or the subsequent contraction of scar tissue left by the inflammation, may distort the valve slightly so that it no longer closes the orifice completely, and hence some backflow or leakage of blood occurs with each beat of the heart.

While there is no pain or other distress pointing to the heart and indeed no indication of heart mischief in most instances, still, if the physician has the patient under close observation he may make a fairly accurate diagnosis of acute endocarditis if there occurs a markedly increased rapidity of the heart's action, perhaps slight irregularity, and an increase in the fever without apparent aggravation of the joint trouble or other primary illness. It is this combination the competent physician has in mind when he insists on rest, perhaps rest in bed, in the early stage of the illnesses mentioned, even though the patient would like to be up and about. Not because the heart is "weak" but because bacterial metastasis—traveling of bacteria from the primary lesion through the circulation to lodge elsewhere in the body—is less likely to occur if the patient remains quiet and the heart beat is correspondingly slow and easy.

The characteristic sign of endocarditis the physician hears listening to the heart is a "murmur," but this abnormal sound is produced only when the trouble occurs in a valvular area. A "murmur" alone by no means indicates endocarditis, valvular or other trouble, for a murmur may occur from simple anemia and in other conditions where there is no question of valvular or other heart disease.

This being a health column, we shall not suggest symptoms of valvular disease, further than to say that the chief reason why any form of valvular disease is a handicap is that it decreases the margin of reserve power in the heart.

New Basic Frock

By Barbara Bell

Here's the newest way to make the smart, wide midriff section, that slims in your waistline to practically nothing. This design has just a few gathers above and below the shaped waistline, giving soft fullness to the bodice and the skirt. Notice, by the way, what a graceful, lovely skirt it is, showing the new trend to front fullness.

Whether you make them long or short, the sleeves are shrug-shouldered and smart. And that heart-shaped neckline is very youthifying and becoming.

Soft materials are pretty for this dress—things like silk crepe, velvet, wool crepe and challis. It's a perfect type of the background dress you especially need in this season of jewelry importance.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1651-B is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 (34) requires, with long sleeves, 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material; with short, 4 1/2 yards. 4 yards of ribbon or bias, 1 yard cord-lacing.

Price of pattern 15 cents. Do not send stamps.

Send 15 cents for the Barbara Bell Fall and Winter Fashion Pattern Book. Make yourself attractive, practical and becoming in clothes, selecting designs from the Barbara Bell well-planned, easy-to-make patterns.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in coin to Household Arts Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

TODAY'S CHARM TIP

We are all prone to get into stupid little habits that grate on other's nerves, as overworking one adjective: as "wonderful" or "marvelous" applied to a steak, a dress, a day, a person.

HUNTSMEN'S PARADISE, Valhalla, Ga., Nov. 30.—After the fourth covey of not less than 25 birds each had been flushed, Major Trammell Scott's voice finally penetrated the four blankets.

"Come on," he said, "it's past time to get up. It's almost a quarter to five. Dove have a peculiar way of not waiting for the sunrise."

It's beyond me why a dove would want to circulate before daylight in weather like this, but I guess everyone and everything must eat.

This is a sort of double-barreled proposition. I mean you arise early in the morning to hunt dove and do not quit until they cease coming in the fields, which, in some cases, is an all-morning proposition.

There is time out for lunch. Following the midday repast, the dogs are set down and hours of pursuing the clever partridge is in order. If there is anyone left with a desire for more tailing of the dove, or dove tailing. He is perfectly welcome. Opportunity beckons. I might mention that Huntsmen's Paradise, Valhalla, is 25 miles this side of Albany. Not having a compass or map along, I am not able to say, at the moment, which side this side is. But, anyway, wherever it is, the hunting is all to the good.

And I might mention, too, that the dream of 24 coveys of not less than 25 birds each was realized by Ben T. Smith, of Atlanta, who has a place near by, during a hunt this week.

Furthermore, Tillie, a female pointer, found 20 of the 24 coveys. But that's another story. Tillie is a toiler of the fields. A quarry to the quail.

TRAILER SPOILED RECORD.

The only reason Tillie didn't point all 24 coveys, Ben Smith pointed out, was because she had been put in the trailer so as to give the other dogs a chance.

Tillie is one story and Susie Q. is another. Susie Q. is a daughter of Stevie, Major Trammell Scott's clever little cocker spaniel. Susie Q. is not a year old and this week made her debut as a retriever of dove. The debut ante daughter of Stevie retrieved the first dove she ever had seen shot and was unstopable for the rest of the shoot. She brought them all back.

This is a bit remarkable in itself. Susie Q. could have been excused, because of her inexperience, if she had mouthed over the first few birds and left them for dead. After all, she had never retrieved anything but sticks and stones before.

"Sticks and stones may break my bones," Susie Q. is reported as saying in the canine chronicle, so I think I'll stick to dove hereafter.

But Ben Smith finally got around to the real story of the initial appearance in the fields of Susie Q., the debutante daughter of Stevie, the stealer.

"She brought them back, all right, but not to me. She put them in the box," Ben Smith calmly asserted.

There was dead silence as the logs crackled merrily in the hearth.

"She put them all in the box," Ben Smith added, looking around at Luther Watson for confirmation. Watson nodded assent.

"In fact, I will bring Susie Q. in now and prove it," Ben Smith continued.

A couple of quail were retrieved from the ample string hanging outside the door and the box also was secured.

But Susie Q. refused to show off. She retrieved well enough but the box seemed to be some sort of foreign element beside the log fire.

"Oh, well," said Ben Smith, "tomorrow's another day."

"She will do it in the fields, all right," Luther Watson put in. So the matter rested there.

FIRST DOVE AND FIRST.

George Trautman, the American Association president, experienced his first covey rise on the hunt. He is an Ohioan and his experience with game birds has included mostly ruffed grouse and ring necked pheasants.

It was during the early morning dove hunt that Trautman, walking through heavy cover on a hillside, suddenly thought he had stepped on hidden explosive. Quail whirled out of the grass almost under his feet and he was so startled he shot in the air.

"I must admit I was startled. It's quite a thrill. Dove shooting is a sporty proposition, too."

He bagged his first dove also on the hunt.

"You have outdone Granny Rice," Scott pointed out. "On Granny's first dove hunt at Bob Woodruff's place near here, he fired a case of shells and brought in only one dove."

IT'S SAD, BUT TRUE.

I find it necessary, in the line of duty, to report that when Major Scott set the dogs down this morning, there were two setters leading the way.

I do not know how Major Scott, the pointer man, will be able to explain this. And I have no idea how he is going to talk his way out of the fact that when he sent the dogs on down ahead, there were three setters and two pointers in the crates.

And I do not know, furthermore, what will stop the setter people when they learn that setters did the best hunting today. The pointers must have had an off day.

Major Scott was a little embarrassed when the discovery was made. "I have no idea how those dogged dogs got in the crates," he said. "I will certainly demand an accounting when I get back home and see my man."

ROGERS FINE SHOT—WITH CAMERA.

Kenneth Rogers, ace photographer, is emphasizing his skill as a picture taker. There hardly is any comparison between the way he shoots a camera and a gun.

That is to say, the difference in the results is quite amazing. Rogers will deny this emphatically. But you can't have everything.

Rogers is the outdoors type that rides the wagon and then complains because the dogs don't point the birds by the side of the road.

The hunt, so far, leaves nothing to be desired. I might mention the T-bone roast for lunch today, but that hardly would be sporting.

New Mexico Faces Utah in Sun Bowl

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 30.—(AP)

It will be the University of New Mexico Lobos versus the Utah University Utes in the Sun Bowl here January 2.

Sun Bowl officials announced today these strong western eleven had accepted invitations to play in the annual football classic here.

The Lobos, co-champions of the Border conference, were beaten only by Texas Tech and Texas Mines this season. The Utes lost only a non-conference tilt with Idaho.

CARDS BAN CLASSES.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—President Sam Breadon, of the St. Louis Cardinals, said today the club would discontinue, for next spring at least, its annual spring baseball training classes.

Bulldogs Depart For Miami Contest

Joel Hunt Takes 31 Players; Warns Team Eddie Dunn Is Great Back.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

EN ROUTE TO MIAMI WITH GEORGIA, Nov. 30.—Determined to stop the great Eddie Dunn and end their football season with a victory, 31 Georgia Bulldogs left Athens last night for their game with Miami University Friday night.

Warned by Coach Joel Hunt that Dunn is as good as any back the Bulldogs have faced this season, the Georgia players are not taking this final game lightly and are not making the trip just for the train ride.

Instead, spirits are high as the Bulldogs realize a victory over the Hurricane will be a fitting climax to a successful season.

However, a terrific battle looms as the Miami eleven hasn't tasted defeat but twice this season and both of these losses were away from home. Jack Harding's boys boast victories over such teams as Duquesne, Bucknell and Florida. They lost only to Drake and Catholic.

LOST THREE.

On the other hand, the Bulldogs have lost to Holy Cross, Auburn and Tulane. They have beaten Citadel, Furman, South Carolina, Mercer, Florida and tied Tech. Therefore, they figure another victory will make Joel Hunt's first season a highly successful one.

The game is rated a toss-up by experts, who say Miami has been pointing for the game for a month while the Bulldogs are apt to be stale after their game with Tech. They also point out that Georgia has yet to play under lights this season while all of Miami's home games were at night.

FAIR SHAPE.

Hunt's eleven will be in fairly good shape for the game. Two players are definitely out and two more are on the doubtful list. Marvin Gillespie, end, and Dooley Mathews, wingback, won't see action while Ned Barbre, end, and Clayton Wilhite, tackle, are expected to play only a few minutes if at all.

The game, second of the series, is expected to attract 20,000 and will be played in the Orange Bowl stadium. Georgia won last year, 26 to 0.

Numerous activities have been planned for the visiting team as Georgia-Miami week is being observed.

The team will work out at Fort Lauderdale Thursday afternoon. Georgia headquarters will be in Hollywood.

Miami Starters Still Uncertain.

The Miami Hurricanes devoted hours today to a dummy scrimmage in which they scrutinized plays Georgia is expected to fire at them. Coach Jack Harding, well satisfied with the team's performance in scrimmage this week, had the freshmen go through Georgia's formations in slow motion.

Harding continued to alternate his men on offense and gave no commitment on his starting eleven. As it is, he has two players of about equal ability for every position except left halfback, where Captain Eddie Dunn will spark the attack as usual.

BOWLING

I. W. (Corporal) Sargent, third ranking bowler of the First National Bank league, was rolling big games Wednesday evening and scored a high game of 146 to place the individual games scores in his league with a big series. Sargent topped all three-day individual scores for the evening in all leagues.

Two games from Spratling-Harington & Thomas, the National Finance team took over a full three-game lead in the Capital City league as their closest competitors, Atlanta Paper Company, dropped three to the Southeastern Foundries.

Ed Dorsey went on a scoring rampage as he turned in the high single game of 311 and series of 34 to pace the individual scoring in the league. McCord Bros., to a two-game victory over Rogers Store, held the high game of 135 and Haul & Dodd in the balance of play. James Bass turned in the high series of 343 for the Gulf league as a number of big games were recorded.

In the Motion Picture league, Kresger's game of 148 and series of 338 paced the individual competition.

12,000 WILL SEE BOYS' HIGH PLAY

Huge Celebration Held in Miami Streets Preceding Game.

By ROY WHITE.

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 30.—Boys' High, of Atlanta will close its 1938 football schedule here tomorrow night in the rubber game of a series of six with the Miami High Stingers. The game will start at 8 o'clock, and will be played in the beautiful new Orange Bowl Stadium, where Tennessee and Oklahoma will battle in a New Year's Day celebration.

Boys' High's team, four coaches, two managers and newspaper men arrived at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The team went immediately to Miami High's field where a one hour punting, passing and signal drill was held.

Boys' High.

Boys' High's squad appeared in the best condition of the year with the exception of Frank Boykin, hard charging fullback, who is suffering with a bad leg. He was in uniform this afternoon, however, and will be ready for Thursday's battle.

Coach Doyal planned to start the strongest lineup possible with Captain Conger and McKinney at ends; Eaves and Haire, tackles; Jarvis and Kuniansky, guards; Webb, center, and Sheldon Greer, Conner and Boykin in the backfield.

Others on the trip include: Thompson, Beerman, Puckett, Jordan, Peterson, Andel, Debardeleben, Bromberg, Brown, Smith, Barfield, McDermott, Cox, Hanley and Wilhoit. Managers Price and Chaffin and Coaches Shorty Doyal, Dwight Keith, Bill Orgain and Harry Appleby, were in charge of the group.

Shorty's Boys.

Buck and Larry Doyal, Shorty's two youngsters and mascots for the Purples, also made the trip.

It was Larry's first train ride and also serves as a birthday present, as he will celebrate another milestone tomorrow. A little party has been planned in his honor, and there will be nine candles on the cake.

Miami High held its workout earlier in the afternoon and appeared in great shape for the game. All the injured players have thrown away their bandages, and are anxiously awaiting the kick-off with high hopes at making it three straight over the Atlantans.

Boys' High's team watched a big parade on the streets tonight. It signaled the opening of three days' celebration of Georgia-Miami week. The coaches took no chance with the youngsters in the frolics which are preceding the game, as a round of entertainment has been planned for the day after the game.

PARADE IN STREETS.

The parade presented 17 musical organizations, floats representing the Quarterbacks Club, sororities and fraternities at the University of Miami and a score or more of Miami's civic organizations.

Officials of the Kiwanis Club sponsoring the game for its Christmas charity fund, predicted a crowd of more than 12,000 for the Boys' High-Miami game, and considerably more for the University of Georgia-Miami U. game Friday night.

Banners and signs announcing the games have been spread all over Miami and every tree and post in the town has a "Welcome Boys' High-Georgia Football Teams" tacked on it.

It is the greatest two days' sports celebration ever planned for Miami's citizens.

BROWN CAPTAIN.
PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 30. (AP)—John J. McLaughry, 197-pound quarterback son of Brown's head football coach "Tuss" McLaughry, was elected captain of the 1939 Brown varsity eleven tonight.

Snooks was no match for the Chattanooga boy.

After taking a terrific beating for two rounds, Jackie Hart, Chattanooga 165-pounder, turned on Atlanta's Earl Johnson and knocked him out in the third round of a bloody duel.

Tommy Jenkins, a lightweight corner, dished out Carl East in a four, and Billy Martinez, Cartersville, whipped Billy Johnson in another four-rounder.

Only the semi-final in which Grady Gentry stopped Battling Snooks, of Toledo, Ohio, in the second round, was below par.

JACK CHIVINGTON IS GIVEN POSITION ON SECOND TEAM

Eight Schools Represented on First Squad; Wyatt Unanimous.

By KENNETH GREGORY.

(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

The University of Tennessee, undefeated and untied champion of the Southeastern Conference, gained additional honors today by placing three of its ace performers on the 1938 all-star eleven selected for the Associated Press by coaches and sports writers.

To the surprise of most observers of the game, Tennessee stepped out with a streamlined football club to emerge victorious over nine straight foes and the team's "key" player was its captain, Bowden Wyatt, a sterling end who received the only unanimous vote in the balloting.

Joining the tall, handsome Wyatt on the honor roll were his helpful companions, George (Bad News) Caffego, a flashy junior halfback, and Robert Suffrage, former Golden Gloves champion and a sophomore guard whose great performance labeled him as one of the nation's best linemen of the year.

Eight teams are represented on the all-star lineup, selected after wide balloting from every section of the conference. Eddie Gatto of Louisiana State University, a husky tackle who was consistent in the line all season, repeated from the 1937 honor roll.

The voting for a guard mate for Suffrage and the team's center was extremely close. James L. (Shorty) Brooks, a 5-foot 7-inch lineman of Georgia Tech won the guard berth with only a few votes to spare over Milton Howell of Auburn and J. W. Gore, a stand-out Louisiana State sophomore.

Quinton Lumpkin, Georgia's captain, gained the center spot in a close vote battle with Jack Chivington of Georgia Tech and Sherman Hinklebein of Kentucky.

No man had a dozen ballots nominated the final backfield selection of Caffego at quarterback, Parker Hall, Mississippi's great all-around backfield star; Warren (Bronco) Brunner of Tulane and Charlie Holm of Alabama. Others receiving many votes were Vic Bradford, Alabama quarterback; Spec Kelly, Auburn's ace runner and Bert Marshall, Vanderbilt's ace performer.

Wyatt, hardly knocked off his feet this season and described by his coach, Major Bob Neyland as "an end without a weakness," found the voting giving him Ken Kavanaugh, tall Louisiana State end, named as a running mate on a team that could easily be classed as one of the most versatile ever to represent the all-star selection.

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 30.—(AP) Coach Wallace Wade said tonight that his Duke University football squad would begin training camp Monday for the Rose Bowl game January 2 against Southern California at Pasadena.

Wade said the number of practice sessions here would depend on the schedule for the westward journey, which hasn't yet been mapped. He said he would arrange a series of workouts to break the trip.

The unbeaten, untied and unscored upon Blue Devils and their coach spent more than an hour today posing for a battery of cameramen and photographers.

T. C. U. Receives Permission To Play.

WACO, Tex., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Henry Trantham, president of the Southwest Conference, said here tonight members of the conference had granted unanimously Texas Christian University, request for permission to meet Carnegie Tech in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans January 2.

WEST SIDE BILLS 10 BOUTS FRIDAY

Amateur boxers will again swing into action Thursday night at West Side arena. Promoter Frank Bettis states he has ten good bouts which should please the most optimistic fans.

Grant Park amateurs will meet the North West team, composed of the best local talent in this section. Bob Phillips, Herman Kemp, Uval Marshall, Otis Neal and the great little middleweight scrapper who won the only bout from Max Maxwell's team from Villa Rica; Bob Adams will again make his appearance. Herman Kemp is one of the most promising fighters in this section. He has not lost a bout in the past eighteen months, and he always carries the fight to his opponent.

The West Side arena is located at 758 Broad and avenue and will be well heated.

FELLER FINED $100.

Jane Is Pleased When Gavin Invites Her to Lunch With Him the Next Day

By RUBY M. AYRES.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

When Jane, youngest of the Brookers' three daughters, is 16, the family can scarcely believe the good news that her godmother, of whom they have seen little in years, has bequeathed her $200,000 to be held in trust until she is 21. Jane, who bothers little with her money, is an odd mixture of dramatics and philosophy and her mother has long given up hope of "managing" her. Pamela, a year older, is saving and careful. Dulcie, the eldest and the beauty of the family, would spend the money lavishly. But that would be expected of her. Mrs. Brookers die suddenly and Jane and Jane find their world upside down, but Pamela just naturally takes her mother's place. Shortly before Jane is to get her legacy, Gavin Montford, who has been in the Canadian wilds, returns to England and is visiting his uncle, Dr. Bingham, the Brookers' neighbor and family physician. The Brookers' old car comes along and tells her the other trouble is her gas tank is empty. He walks with her two miles to a garage to get gasoline, learning en route that the love poetry and is superstitious, particularly about seeing the moon through clouds or reflected in the water. When Pamela tells Jane that Dr. Bingham's nephew is coming to dinner, Jane does not mention having met him. Sidney Dale, whom Pamela expects to marry, is pessimistic over business prospects for Gavin. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT IV.

Jane stared at her. "Are you in love with him?" she asked, a little blankly. To Jane's way of thinking Sidney Dale was such an unromantic person—a chartered accountant who wore spectacles and was the soul of punctuality. She felt vague disturbed as she saw her sister's color rise.

"I don't know about being 'in love' with him," Pamela said, in her quiet voice. "But I think I love him—and that's better." She pushed back her chair. "Have you finished your supper?"

"Yes, thank you."

"You don't eat enough to keep a sparrow alive."

"Big meals are such shocking waste of time," Jane objected.

She picked up her coat and bet and went upstairs to her room. Would Gavin Montford really come to dinner, she wondered. And, if so, would he, seeing her with the family, consider her as different and out of place as they did?

She hunted through her rather meager wardrobe for her one evening frock. Not very fresh looking, she decided regretfully—but she could press it out and perhaps buy a new spray of flowers. The color was quite good—smoky blue like her eyes; she dropped it carelessly on the bed and seized the hair brush.

Why wouldn't her hair be good and lie down as Pamela's did? But the more she brushed it, the more alive and electric it seemed, and after a moment she gave it up, frowning at her reflection in the mirror.

"If he doesn't like me as I am—I can't help it," she thought, and then look quick alarm. What did it matter whether he liked her or not? A man whom she had met by chance and who had probably forgotten all about her. Besides, they had not really been able to see each other properly except for a few moments in the light of Smith's garage, but she knew that those few moments had been long enough for her to memorize his face—his gray eyes, his level brows and sunburnt skin.

How old was he, she wondered, and decided that he was probably 27. Funny they should have discovered so many mutual tastes. He looked poetry and freedom—or had he said that the wide-open spaces were lonely? And suddenly she was picturing him riding along over the moonlit prairie land, to the dance in the kind of lumber camp you saw in the pictures, to the tinkle of a piano.

And then inconspicuously she seemed to hear him saying: "It's supposed to be unlucky to see a new moon in the water." But somehow the thought did not touch her superstition now—surely tonight had been a lucky night.

Gavin came to dinner, arriving a moment after Sidney, and Jane managed to be in the hall when he was admitted and to whisper to him not to mention that they had already met.

He looked at her in faint surprise, but he only said: "Oh, very well," before he gave his coat to the maid and followed Jane into the drawing room, where Pamela and Sidney and Mr. Brookers were waiting.

Everybody was introduced, and Pamela mixed cocktails, and Jane thought a little impatiently how correct and circumspect everything was. Much more fun to be out in the spring night walking along the deserted highway—in one's old clothes.

Gavin was talking to her father, answering questions about Canada and his life there—admitting that he had come home because there seemed to be no future, and that he was hoping to settle down in England.

"There is not a very great future in England today—except for skilled men," Sidney said, and Gavin laughed.

"It's rather a poor prospect for me then," he answered.

"Most things need capital," Sidney said in his businesslike way, and Jane frowned and told him not to be a wet blanket.

"Sidney is perfectly right, my dear," Mr. Brookers said, and Jane answered that people thought far too much about money.

"It's all very well for you," Pamela objected. "Jane is one of the lucky ones," she explained to Gavin. "When she is 21 she comes into a nice legacy from a fair godmother."

"I've waited long enough for it," Jane said, and then dinner was announced and the conversation broke up.

"I like him," Pamela said later, when she and Jane were alone in the drawing room. "I should never have thought he was related to the Bingham. I wonder what he is doing in Canada and what he means to do now?"

Jane was wandering restlessly about the room.

"If he's got any sense, he'll go back," she said abruptly. "Can you see him going to a city office every day in a starched collar; he'd loathe it."

"He didn't seem to like Canada very much from all accounts," Sidney said, his best to be discouraging about England.

"Sidney knows how difficult it is to make a living in England, unless you've got a profession at your finger-tips."

"Sidney was lucky enough to have a father to give him a good start in the world," Jane said sharply.

"Sidney works very hard," Pamela retorted.

The men joined them and Gavin sat down beside Jane.

"It was rather a dull evening, wasn't it?" Pamela said, looking in at her sister's room for a moment before they went to bed.

"Dull?" Jane turned around. "I rather enjoyed it."

Pamela stared at her. "Well, you are the most surprising creature," she said. "You hardly spoke a word, and I thought you must be unutterably bored."

"I was so busy listening to the words of wisdom from the rest of the party," Jane retorted, and she wondered what Pamela would say if she knew that Gavin had asked her to meet him tomorrow.

"I've got a car—no much better than your old bus—" so he had apologized. "But if you dare risk it—may I drive you out to lunch somewhere?"

She had answered: "Oh, I should love it." But when he had said: "Shall I call for you?" she had refused. "I'll meet you—anywhere you like—I'd rather."

"Smith's garage?" he asked, with a twinkle, and she nodded.

"Yes—half-past twelve."

She had never felt so excited in her life: much more excited than that morning five years ago when the news of her legacy had arrived. Money! It was such an overrated thing.

It was not that she had never been out with men before—she had had quite serious friendship with Lionel Forbes, who had been really broken-hearted when she told him that it was a friendship and nothing more, and never could be.

"I thought you really liked me, Jane," he had said wistfully, and she answered regretfully. "So I do—but then I like lots of people just as much."

And after that he had stopped coming to the house, and quite soon she had heard that he was engaged to a girl living 15 miles away at Somer.

Poor Lionel! Pamela said she was losing a fine chance by sending him away, for he had money and prospects, and a really fine car which could eat up the worst hill without coaxing or noisy changing of gear, and yet Jane had never felt pleasurable participation about going out with him and had often been really bored in his company.

But this invitation from Gavin Montford was something in quite a different category, and in a vague way Pamela felt a little ashamed that it should be so different. She, who had always scoffed at sentiment, to feel as if all the stars in the heavens were singing; she who had always felt rather contemptuous because Dulcie took infinite pains with her appearance no matter whether people were expected or not, suddenly longed for pretty new clothes. As if clothes really made so much difference! Some one was going to like you they would still like you, no matter whether your coat was the winter-before-last's, and your shoes sensible, flat-heeled brogues.

She crept into bed and in the darkness took herself severely to task. Unwise to count so much on tomorrow—a man thought nothing of asking a girl out to lunch, and the modern girl did not immediately start to dream because of such an invitation. Dulcie went out with dozens of different men and still appeared to be heart-whole, but then—Dulcie had not met Gavin.

"I'm glad she's away," Jane thought, and then was ashamed, for Dulcie could make no difference at all if Gavin Montford really liked her. On the other hand, it might be that he was just bored with the Bingham's quiet mode of living, and had liked her for her cheery, unaffected comradeship.

The moon on the water—a bad omen or a good one? "A good one," Jane told herself firmly, and at last turned over and fell asleep.

Continued Tomorrow.

ARKANSAS INVITES RIVERS TO MAKE JACKSON DAY TALK

Governor Bailey Pledges His State's Co-operation in South's Fight on Unfair Freight Charges.

Governor Carl Bailey, of Arkansas, yesterday pledged the co-operation of his state in the south's fight on discriminatory freight rates and brought Governor Rivers an invitation to make the Jackson Day dinner speech at Little Rock January 7.

Governor Bailey recently joined the Southeastern Governors' conference and will be "initiated" at a meeting scheduled here late in January.

The Arkansas Chief Executive, who is the guest of Governor Rivers, declared yesterday that he felt that "the discriminatory freight rates and the farm tenancy problem" are the two things which are holding the south back.

Usher in Prosperity.
"I feel that if the freight rate situation can be adjusted the south will move into the greatest era of prosperity it has ever seen," the Arkansas Governor said.

Governor Rivers said he was not able to say definitely whether he would go to Little Rock for the Jackson Day dinner speech. The event will be just three days before his inauguration for his second term and he added that he expected to be very busy preparing for the opening of the legislature, January 9.

Georgia's Chief Executive will celebrate his birthday anniversary today. He will be 43.

Rivers said last night that he expected to devote the entire day to a conference with members of the legislature on plans for the coming session. The conference will be the fifth such meeting he has held, conferring with senators and representatives by districts.

Governor Rivers held a long legislative conference yesterday following his visit to the capitol with Governor Bailey.

No announcements have been made regarding the matters discussed at the conference, but it is understood that with the Bibb county delegation having gone on record in favor of a sales tax that matter is being given some consideration.

Following today's conference, Governor Rivers will wait until Monday for the next one.

WPA, PHILHARMONIC TO OFFER CONCERT

Presentation Will Be Third of Sunday Series.

The WPA orchestra, augmented by musicians from the Atlanta Philharmonic, will be presented at 3 o'clock next Sunday afternoon in the third of a series of free Sunday civic concerts at the city auditorium.

The feature selection of the orchestra, under the direction of Walter Sheets, will be the stirring "Finlandia," by Jan Sibelius. Organized by the WPA recreation division, the series began November 20, and will continue through the last Sunday in February.

Included on the program are Miss Myrtle Trumble and Ellis Williams, who will sing a duet from Verdi's opera, "La Traviata," and a marimba solo, "Raymond Overture," rendered by Albert Quirk.

J. Lee Harner Jr., WPA recreation supervisor and concert series manager, has announced that the new sound board now being built for the auditorium stage will be completed by Sunday.

12 MEN RESCUED AFTER SEA CRASH

Coast Guard Cutter Saves Crew of Fishing Boat.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Nov. 30.—(UP)—The Coast Guard Cutter Aurora late today rescued from a rocky ledge 12 members of the crew of the 76-foot fishing boat Dante Alighieri II, which ran aground on the western end of Santa Cruz Island off Santa Barbara.

Three other members had been rescued earlier by another fishing boat.

All hands were rescued safely from the rocky ledge on which they had sought refuge after the $40,000 boat was wrecked in high seas early today. The boat was reported to be a total loss.

RAILWAY ASKS RIGHT TO BORROW $1,300,000

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(P)—The Savannah and Atlanta Railway asked Interstate Commerce authority today to borrow $1,300,000 to pay off trustees' certificates and provide cash for operation.

The application was filed pursuant to a reorganization plan for the railway. The application is a revision of one asking permission to borrow $1,700,000.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 quarts a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, head aches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

They Will Dance for Higher Honors Tonight

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Thompson, selected in The Constitution's "Bring Back the Waltz" contest—as the most representative waltzing couple in Atlanta, tonight will meet winning couples from other Georgia cities in the Spanish room of the Henry Grady hotel for selection of state representatives to compete later in the night in the zone finals. The zone of which Georgia is a part, includes also Florida, Tennessee and Arkansas.

'SLASHER' ATTACKS THOUGHT HOAXES

English Girl Confesses Wounding Herself After Reporting Knifing.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(P)—Scotland Yard detectives and provincial police pondered tonight over the possibility that the phantom "slasher" who has terrorized women of the north country may, after all, actually be a phantom.

A 14-year-old schoolgirl who alleged she was attacked last night in a Manchester suburb, and wounded on the arm by a man who jumped out of the dark with a razor, confessed today she had lied, and that her injury was accidental.

Mystified police recounting numerous attacks—which spread to four other towns after starting in Halifax a week ago—recalled that all wounds were superficial, most of them on the arm, and many on the left arm.

They wondered whether it was possible the victims had mutilated themselves in an odd hysterical craving for publicity after the first, and probably authentic, assault.

SPURNED HUSBAND KILLS 2 AND SELF

Two Would-Be Peace Makers Wounded.

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—(P)—After failing to effect a reconciliation with his wife, John St. Angelo, 35, of Providence, today killed the young woman and her mother, wounded two others and then ended his own life with the last bullet in his still smoking pistol.

Acting Superintendent of Police Anderson said St. Angelo first shot his wife, Florence, 28, then killed his mother-in-law, Mrs. Carmela Cente, 65, when she sought to interfere.

His other two victims also were shot, Anderson said, when they attempted to interfere. They were identified at city hospital as Dominic Cente, 65, St. Angelo's father-in-law, and Miss Philomena Diordatt, 17.

NO TRACE IS FOUND OF TURNER'S TRAIL

Tattnall Fugitive Believed To Have Stolen Truck.

REIDSVILLE, Ga., Nov. 30.—(P)—Forrest Turner, will-o'-the-wisp fugitive from the Tattnall county state prison, with a record of previous escapes, today continued to elude searchers on his trail since he rode out the prison yard last week.

Prison officials announced capture of Howard Wray, of Savannah, who escaped with Turner. Wray is 23 and is serving a seven-year sentence for robbery.

A pickup truck was stolen from Reidsville last night. Prison officials said they believed Turner was responsible and asked officers to be on the lookout for a truck bearing a Tattnall feed store sign on the cab.

MEMPHIS OFFERS UTILITY $17,385,000

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 30.—(P)—The City of Memphis offered today to buy both the electric and gas properties of Memphis Power & Light Company for $17,385,000. The proposal was made to representatives of the National Power & Light Company, holding company parent of the Memphis utility, by the city board of light and water commissioners. An answer was demanded by noon Saturday, December 3.

COUPLES TO WALTZ IN STATE CONTEST

Atlanta Entry Will Participate; Zone Finals Also Scheduled Tonight.

By LILLIE MAY ROBINSON.
During the last two months, there has been a concerted national effort to "Bring Back the Waltz" as the great American dance.

Dance orchestras, bands and radio programs have all featured the waltz. Contests have been held in 1,500 cities of the 48 states to find outstanding exponents of this lovely old dance.

November 2 The Constitution with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer held Waltz night in the Spanish room of the Henry Grady hotel, where 80 couples entered the local competition to represent the city in a state contest.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Thompson were selected as Atlanta's best waltzing couple. And tonight, the night proclaimed by Governor Rivers as Georgia Waltz Night, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will meet contesting couples from other Georgia cities to compete for the title of most representative waltzing couple in Georgia.

The contest will be held at 8 o'clock in the Spanish room of the Henry Grady hotel, with Bert Bertram, president of the Georgia Dance Masters' Association; Enrico Leide, widely known musician and orchestra leader, and Miss Lottie Hentschell, who has danced throughout America in many foreign countries, as judges.

A loving cup will be presented to Georgia's winning couple, and they will participate in the zone finals, which will follow the state's contest. State winners from Florida, Tennessee and Arkansas will meet Georgia's winners for selection of the couple to receive an all-expense trip to New York to enter the national contest on December 12, in the ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

There, the couple selected as best will win a three months' contract in Hollywood with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

In both the state and the zone finals tonight, judging will be on the same five points—grace, rhythm, personality, dance deportment and general appearance—these were the basis of the Atlanta contest, and which will be used by the judges in New York.

FORD TO BE WITNESS AT MONOPOLY HEARING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(P)—Chairman O'Mahoney (democrat, Wyoming) said today that one of the early witnesses in the investigation, starting tomorrow, would be Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company.

Ford is to testify in connection with the committee's study of patent pools in the automobile industry, a phase to be gone into next week after the receipt of masses of statistics covering many past years of business activity.

AVAILANCHE KILLS 13, DESTROYS 85 HOUSES

CARACAS, Venezuela, Nov. 30. (UP)—Thirteen persons, one of them a 5-year-old child, today were reported killed when tons of rain-loosened earth plunged down a hillside at Puerto Maiquetia, near Guaira, destroying 85 houses.

A school bus traveling from Guaira to Caracas was partially covered by the avalanche, but its occupants were unhurt. The landslide followed days of heavy rains throughout the country.

DAVEY MUSES FATE OF MRS. ANNA HAHN

'Should I Allow a Woman To Die?' Is Question Facing Governor.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 30.—(P)—Governor Martin L. Davey sat at his desk in Ohio's state house tonight and mused aloud:

"Should I allow a woman to die?"

That, he disclosed, was the sole question as he wrestled with what he called one of the most difficult decisions in his career—whether to spare the life of Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn of Cincinnati, condemned poison slayer.

Of one thing he was certain, however: that he would not grant a reprieve.

"That would be unfair to my successor," the governor said. "I shall decide definitely by December 7 (the scheduled electrocution date) whether Mrs. Hahn shall die or whether I shall commute her sentence to life imprisonment."

Attorneys for Mrs. Hahn will plead for clemency tomorrow before Daniel S. Earhart, the governor's executive secretary.

She was convicted of poisoning Jacob Wagner, 78-year-old gardener, for his modest estate.

PI DELTA EPSILON INITIATION IS SET

19 Will Be Inducted December 9, 10, 11.

Initiation ceremonies for 19 men recently elected to membership in Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalistic fraternity at Georgia Tech, will be held December 9, 10 and 11, it was announced yesterday. A banquet will be held on the opening and closing nights.

Those elected include William Forsythe, T. O. Day, Jeff Hooker, Hal Felsner, Frank Hudson, Marvin Kampen and Irwin Massey, where order against wearing of socks precipitated a "picket" line of men students protesting the demise of "socks appeal."

Campus women, who refused to permit use of their names, said they would formulate a plan of action Saturday. They argued the "comfort, cost and convenience" of ankle socks.

Men students paraded about the women's chapel today, equipped fore and aft with placards urging retention of "socks appeal."

JOINT SUIT ACTION UPHELD BY COURT

Insurance Company Loses Damage Case Appeal.

The state supreme court yesterday affirmed the right of Mrs. Leona Brown of Augusta, to include an insurance company as a defendant in her $10,000 damage suit for the truck death of her 17-year-old son.

The City Court of Augusta was upheld in overruling a demurrer filed by Lloyds America, the company insuring a truck operated by A. B. Coombs, J. R. Coombs and J. F. O'Neal.

Lloyds contended a section of a Georgia motor carrier law permitting an insurer to be sued in the same action with the carrier was unconstitutional. The supreme court held the section valid.

In her petition, Mrs. Brown alleged her son, Henry, was offered a ride on a truck driven by O'Neal and when he attempted to mount a trailer the truck started, throwing him beneath the wheels.

Socks 'Appeal' Ban at Vandy Brings Battle

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 30.—(P)—Vanderbilt University's coeds are not going to give up ankle socks and eye-catching bare legs to the dean of women without a struggle.

Sorority leaders said tonight they planned a meeting Saturday to discuss the action of Dean Ada Bell Stapleton, dean of women, whose order against wearing of socks precipitated a "picket" line of men students protesting the demise of "socks appeal."

POSSE HUNTS GIRL KIDNAPED ON ROAD

Armed Farmers Join Police in Searching Through Maryland Woods.

OXON HILL, Md., Nov. 30.—(UP)—A 300-man posse of armed farmers, led by state and Prince Georges county police, tonight searched near-by woods for an 18-year-old Washington convent who purportedly was abducted by two men late this afternoon.

The girl, Mary Brown, was walking home with her sister, Lucy, 15, from a bus stop when two men in a light-bodied delivery truck stopped and forced her into the car's interior and then sped off. The sister told police she escaped by fleeing across fields.

The girls had just returned from Notre Dame Academy Business school in Washington when the incident occurred. They are daughters of William B. Brown, an employee of the Federal Bureau of Printing and Engraving.

Dr. Emil Hacha Chosen by Parliament; Jan Syrový Resigns.

PRAGUE, Nov. 30.—(P)—Shrunkler Czecho-Slovakia today started building a new government whose policies were expected to be molded to German needs and demands.

Parliament elected Dr. Emil Hacha president by 272 votes of 312.

His first act was to accept the resignation of Premier General Jan Syrový, one-eyed army inspector who took the premiership in the midst of the September crisis.

Rudolf Beran, a deputy, chairman of the newly-formed party of national unity and a conservative, was asked by Hacha to form a new cabinet.

The name of the country now is spelled officially with a hyphen to indicate equality among Czechs and Slovaks.

ROOSEVELT SCANS LEGISLATIVE PLAN FOR NEW SESSION

Will Confer With Bankhead Today; Defense Program Is Expected To Head List for Action.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 30. (UP)—President Roosevelt tonight roughly sketched salient points of the administration's new legislative program, preparatory to a conference tomorrow with Speaker William Bankhead.

White House attaches declined to discuss the program, but observers agreed that national defense would be the No. 1 item on the agenda for congressional action. The chief executive, weighing data compiled by a committee of experts, was completing his study of the defense problem.

Expanded Armaments.

Military and naval developments abroad had been a major factor in Mr. Roosevelt's determination to expand America's defense armaments, but he had given no clue to the scope of the recommendations he would make.

Reports persisted, however, that he would ask for an air force of at least 7,000 planes, new anti-aircraft weapons, air bases at strategic points and a more streamlined navy and army organization to combat any threat of invasion.

The President was expected to review with Bankhead the progress being made on the defense survey and other issues likely to come before congress early in the next session.

Congressional Work.

Sources close to the White House speculated the following subjects most likely would be given attention early by the next congress.

1. Legislation for rehabilitation of the nation's transportation structure.
2. Revision of the Wagner labor relations act to more clearly define authority of the board.
3. Government reorganization.
4. Amendments to the agricultural adjustment act of 1933.
5. Revision of the tax law.
6. Amendment of the neutrality act.

Mr. Roosevelt recently indicated he had no intention of abandoning his fight for government reorganization. He suffered a major setback when congress killed such a measure last spring.

SUSPENDS FIREMAN ON DRUNK CHARGE

Firemasters Overrule Parker's Dismissal Recommendation.

Overriding Fire Chief O. J. Parker's recommendation to dismiss the board of firemasters last night suspended J. W. Strauss, 33-year-old fireman who pleaded guilty to driving while under the influence of intoxicants November 8, for 60 days.

Strauss admitted that he had several drinks of whisky but denied he was drunk. He was arrested November 8 by Officers Finley and Chappin after a citizen reported a drunk man had pointed a gun at him. In Strauss' car there were a pistol and a rifle. The fireman said last night he had been hunting in south Georgia and had just returned from his vacation when the incident occurred.

Charges against him for pointing a gun at another were dismissed by the recorder.

Because it was his first time before the board, the firemasters unanimously voted to suspend rather than discharge. Present were Councilman John T. Matter, chairman; Aldermen I. Glover Hailley and Dan Bridges and Councilmen William Knight and Howard Haire.

3D SPY CONVICTED IN ESPIONAGE TRIAL

Jury Recommends Mercy for Erich Glaser.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—German-born Erich Glaser, 38, a former U. S. Army Air Corps private, was convicted late today with a recommendation for clemency of conspiracy to steal American military secrets. The same federal jury convicted two other German spies last night without recommendation.

These facing the possible maximum of 20 years in prison under the U. S. code concerning espionage are Johanna Hoffmann, 26, a hair-dresser on the German liner Europa, and Otto Hermann Voss, 39, a former airplane mechanic.

Sentences will be pronounced Friday by Federal Judge John C. Knox.

MRS. W. W. BRICE, 80, DAWSON COUNTY, DIES

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Nov. 30. Mrs. W. Walter Brice, 80, mother of H. Grady Brice, Atlanta patrolman, died late today at her home in Dawson county. Funeral services will be held Friday morning at 11 o'clock in the Harmony Baptist church, with interment in the churchyard.

Mrs. Brice had been a lifelong resident of Dawson county, and was a member of the Baptist church about 70 years. She and her husband, who survives, celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary last January.

Other survivors include one son, W. M. Brice, of Hall county, two daughters, Mrs. W. R. Stowers and Mrs. J. W. Talley, of Dawson county; a brother, John Amos, of Corbin, Ky.; and a sister, Mrs. Ann Duncan, of Dawson county.

MRS. CARL VINSON IS MUCH IMPROVED

Congressman Leaves Capital for Georgia Visit.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Mrs. Carl Vinson, wife of the dean of Georgia's congressional delegation, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia at Walter Reed hospital here more than two weeks, is much improved, Representative Vinson said today just prior to leaving for his home in Milledgeville.

Mr. Vinson has been in constant attendance on Mrs. Vinson since the day before Thanksgiving, when he was called to Washington because of her illness. He said he would return here about December 20 to remain until the new congress convenes January 3.

Information

CLOSING HOURS

Want ads are accepted up to 9 p. m. for publication the day after. The closing hour for the Sunday edition is 3:30 p. m. Saturday.

LOCAL CLASSIFIED RATES

Daily and Sunday rates per line for consecutive insertions:

One time 27 cents
Three times 20 cents
Seven times 18 cents
Thirty times 14 cents
10% Discount for Cash

Minimum: 2 lines (11 words).

In estimating the space to an ad, 10 letters average words for first line and 8 average words for each additional line.

Ads ordered for three or seven days and closed before expiration will only be charged for the number of times the ad appeared and adjustments made at the rate earned.

Errors in advertisements should be reported immediately. The Constitution will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion.

All Want Ads are restricted to their proper classification and The Constitution reserves the right to revise or reject any advertisement.

Ads ordered by telephone are accepted from persons listed in the telephone or city directories only. For this courtesy the advertiser is expected to remit promptly.
